Contesting record procedures: See NOTIFICATION above.

Record source categories: Claimants making demands for money damages, reports of postal employees involved in accidents, local police reports, Inspection Service investigative reports and American Insurance Association Index reports.

LIST OF U.S. POSTAL SERVICE FACILITIES REFERENCED HEREIN

The address of each Postal Service facility referred to in each system notice, other than post offices, and the geographical area served, is provided on the pages following. The addresses of individual post offices are not provided because of their large number and because that information is available locally to all concerned individuals.

The addresses of all Postal facilities, to include locations in the Canal Zone, Guam-Samoa, Puerto Rico, and the Virgin Islands, are contained in THE DIRECTORY OF POST OFFICES, Publication 26, Stock Number 3900-00247, available for sale by the Superintendent of Documents, U.S. Government Printing Office, Washington, D.C. 20402—Price $3.90.

Postmasters, upon request, will supply the addresses of the District Offices and Sectional Management Centers to which they report.

The following excerpt of addresses and areas serviced is provided for convenience of Privacy Act correspondents, and obviates the repetition in each notice. All "Headquarters" addresses are:

would you like to know if any changes have been made in certain titles of the CODE OF FEDERAL REGULATIONS without reading the Federal Register every day? If so, you may wish to subscribe to the "Cumulative List of CFR Sections Affected," the "Federal Register Index," or both.

Cumulative List of CFR Sections Affected
per year

The "Cumulative List of CFR Sections Affected" is designed to lead users of the Code of Federal Regulations to amendatory actions published in the Federal Register, and is issued monthly in cumulative form. Entries indicate the nature of the changes.

Federal Register Index $8.00
per year

Indexes covering the contents of the daily Federal Register are issued monthly, quarterly, and annually. Entries are carried primarily under the names of the issuing agencies. Significant subjects are carried as cross-references.

A finding aid is included in each publication which lists Federal Register page numbers with the date of publication in the Federal Register.

Note to FR Subscribers: FR Indexes and the "Cumulative List of CFR Sections Affected" will continue to be mailed free of charge to regular FR subscribers.

System name: Confidential Statements of Employment and Financial Interests, Personnel Division, Office of the Secretary—Treasury/OS.

System location: Room 1306, Main Treasury Building, Personnel Division, Security Branch, Office of the Secretary, Department of the Treasury.

Categories of individuals covered by the system: Statements are required from all Treasury employees under the categories listed under Section 0.735-70, Department of the Treasury Minimum Standards of Conduct as reprinted from the Federal Registers, December 16, 1970, and amendments dated April 9, 1971, and January 8, 1973.

Categories of records in the system: Forms TD 3086 and 3087 (Confidential Statement of Employment (1)) and Form TD 3086 (Statement of Employment and Financial Interests)—For Special Government Employees) and Form TD 3087 (Confidential Statement of Employment and Financial Interests) prepared by the incumbent or potential incumbent as prescribed.

Authority for maintenance of the system: In conformance with Sections 201 through 209 of Title 18 of the United States Code, Executive Order No. 11222 of May 8, 1965, OS:PD and Title 5, Chapter I, Part 735, of the Code of Federal Regulations as published in the Department of the Treasury Minimum Standards of Conduct reprinted from the Federal Registers dated December 16, 1970, and amendments dated April 9, 1971, and January 8, 1973.

Routine uses of records maintained in the system, including categories of users and the purposes of such uses: Statements are prepared by employees or applicants and are submitted through the Personnel Office to the agency reviewing officer. If there are no indications that a conflict of interest condition exists, the reviewing official signs and dates the form and returns it to the Personnel Office for retention. For additional routine uses, see Appendix AA.

Policies and practices for storing, retrieving, accessing, retaining, and disposing of records in the system:

Storage: To meet the requirements of confidentiality set forth in Subchapter 4-10, Part 735, Federal Personnel Manual, each Statement of Employment and Financial Interests is filed alphabetically in three-ring binders which in turn are filed in metal containers designed for the storage of classified information and secured by government-approved three-position, combination locks.

Retrievability: Since these statements are filed alphabetically in three-ring binders, they are retrieved accordingly.

Safeguards: In addition to being stored in a secure, metal container with government-approved, combination locks, the metal container is situated in a room which, during normal work hours, is under the supervision of authorized employees, and during nonwork hours is locked. The files are in the custody of security specialists for secure storage and access is made only to personnel and administrative officials in the performance of their official functions or to the incumbents who executed the statements.

Retention and disposal: Statements of active employees are retained during incumbent employment tenure and subject to annual up-date as required by law. Records of personnel who depart are retired and maintained for two years, then destroyed as required by Item 26, Appendix B, General Records Schedule, Title 3.

Treasury/OS 00.501

System name: Disabled Veterans Statistical Report—Treasury/OS.

System location: Room 1325, Main Treasury Building, Department of the Treasury, 15th and Pennsylvania Avenue, N.W., Washington, D.C. 20220.

Categories of individuals covered by the system: All government employees within the Office of the Secretary claiming either a five or ten point veteran preference.

Categories of records in the system: The record is a computer printout that categorizes all Office of the Secretary employees claiming a veteran preference by their veteran preference code number. Inside each numerical category, the employees are listed alphabetically along with their employing bureau, office; physical handicap code, pay plan, and social security number.

Authority for maintenance of the system: Public Law 93-508.

Routine uses of records maintained in the system, including categories of users and the purposes of such uses: The record is used solely to gather statistics on the total number of Office of the Secretary employees claiming either 10 point compensable, 10 point noncompensable, or 5 point veteran preference codes, in addition to the number of them that have reportable handicaps. This data is then used to prepare the Treasury Department's report required by the Civil Service Commission pursuant to its authority under the Vietnam Era Veterans Readjustment Assistance Act of 1974 (P.L. 93-508) and in accordance with the guidelines contained in FPM Letter No. 306-8. For additional routine uses, see Treasury Appendix AA.

Policies and practices for storing, retrieving, accessing, retaining, and disposing of records in the system:

Storage: The information is kept in a file cabinet and is available to authorized personnel only. During non-working hours, both the cabinet and the office in which the file is located are locked.

Retrievability: Each individual is retrieved by the veteran preference code number and then alphabetically within the code.

Safeguards: As indicated above under Storage, during official business hours the file is available to authorized personnel only, and at the close of business the office and the file cabinet in which the record is stored is locked.

Retention and disposal: The record is maintained for one week in order to gather the statistics for the Disabled Veterans report and then it is placed in a "Classified Waste" bag to be burned.

Treasury/OS 00.045

System name: Personnel Security Files—Treasury/OS

System location: Room 1306, Main Treasury Building, Personnel Division, Security Branch, Office of the Secretary, Department of the Treasury.

Categories of individuals covered by the system: Government employees or applicants occupying or applying for Sensitive positions in the Office of the Secretary of the Treasury as defined in EO 10450 and FPM 736 and Chapter 736, Treasury Personnel Manual. Also, contract employees who require access to classified information as defined in EO 11652.

Categories of records in the system: Full field or limited background investigations, and FBI Name Checks.

Authority for maintenance of the system: Sections 2 and 3, EO 10450.

Routine uses of records maintained in the system, including categories of users and the purposes of such uses: Consistent with the provisions of Sections 5 and 6, EO 10450, when unfavorable or questionable information is developed on an employee or applicant which could conceivably have a deleterious affect on the position filled or to be filled or adversely affect the granting of a security clearance, such information is made available to the appropriate employing officials limited only to those transcendent authorities who are in a position to make final determinations on hiring, continued employment or access to classified information. In addition, files are periodically made available to official investigative or security personnel from other U.S. Government agencies, upon request, when an employee or former employee is being considered for employment by another U.S. Government agency for a Sensitive position as defined in EO 10450. For additional routine uses, see Appendix AA.

Policies and practices for storing, retrieving, accessing, retaining, and disposing of records in the system:

Storage: Each security file is inserted into an individual file folder which is filed in metal containers designed for the storage of classified information and secured by government approved three-position, combination locks.

Retrievability: Each security file folder is identified by the name of the person to whom it applies and these are filed in alphabetical order.

Safeguards: In addition to being stored in secure metal containers with government approved, combination locks, the metal containers are located in locked rooms, the keys of which are controlled and issued to the custodians of the files. The security specialists and administrative personnel who maintain the files are selected for their experience and afforded access only after having been cleared by a full-field background investigation and granted appropriate security clearances consistent with the provisions of EO 10450 for critical-sensitive positions. Those departmental officials who may occasionally be granted access consistent with their positions to employ and concur in the granting of security clearances have also been investigated prior to filling critical-sensitive positions as required by EO 10450.

Retention and disposal: Active security files are retained during incumbent employment tenure, and subject to up-date investigation as required by EO 10450. Files of employees who affect intra-agency transfers (to other Department of the Treasury Bureaus) are automatically transferred to the gaining Bureaus. If an employee leaves the government or is transferred to another governmental department, the file is retained, but separated from the active files, for a period of five years, except for background investigations completed by the Civil Service Commission which are returned to that agency immediately following the employee's departure from the Department.

Treasury/OS 00.049

System name: Security Clearance Index Card File, Security Branch, Office of the Secretary of the Treasury—Treasury/OS.

System location: Room 1306, Main Treasury Building, Personnel Division, Security Branch, Office of the Secretary, Department of the Treasury.

Categories of individuals covered by the system: Government employees occupying positions within the Office of the Secretary, including Consultants, occupying Sensitive positions and on whom security investigations have been completed pursuant to EO 10450 and who have been granted security clearances for access to classified information as defined in EO 11652.

Categories of records in the system: TD Form 4027 (Notice of Security Clearance) reflecting identification data on incumbent and record and type of EO 10450 investigation and degree and date of security clearance.

Authority for maintenance of the system: Local implementation to facilitate responses for inquiries on security clearances from within Treasury and from other federal agencies on Treasury employees who may transfer or who may attend classified conferences or meetings.

Routine uses of records maintained in the system, including categories of users and the purposes of such uses: When inquiries are received from offices within Treasury or other federal agencies as to the clearance status of Treasury employees who may have an official need to attend classified conferences or meetings or have access to classified documents, the availability of this index system facilitates a response. For additional routine uses, see Appendix AA.

Policies and practices for storing, retrieving, accessing, retaining, and disposing of records in the system:

Storage: The alphabetized indices are filed in a metal, 3 x 5 card file cabinet available to authorized security and administrative specialists on duty in the Security Branch during normal working hours. During non-working periods, the office in which the file is located is locked, with keys issued only to those who are normally employed in the office and an emergency key in the custody of the Officer in Charge of the Treasury Security Force.

Retrievability: Since each card is filed alphabetically by the last name of the individuals concerned, they are retrieved accordingly

Safeguards: As indicated under "Storage" above, the metal card file is located in an office which is under direct supervision of an authorized employee of the Security Branch during normal working hours, and in a locked office during non-working hours.

Retention and disposal: The active indices are maintained on current employees and when an employee departs the Office of the Secretary for employment elsewhere, the card is transferred to an inactive index where it is maintained indefinitely.

System manager(s) and address: Chief, Security Branch, Personnel Division, Room 1306, Assistant Secretary of the Treasury (Administration), Office of the Secretary, Department of the Treasury, 15th and Pennsylvania Avenue, Northwest, Washington, D.C. 20220.

Categories of individuals covered by the system: Current and former employees of the Department of the Treasury.

Categories of records in the system: The files and records contain investigative information related to personnel investigations conducted by the Department of the Treasury and other Federal agencies and departments, for the purpose of granting security clearances and making suitability determinations.

Authority for maintenance of the system: Executive Order 10450.

Routine uses of records maintained in the system, including categories of users and the purposes of such uses: The contents of these records and files may be disclosed and used within the Federal government as follows:

(1) To officers and employees of the Department of the Treasury who have a need for the information in the performance of their official duties.

(2) To designated officers and employees of other agencies and departments of the Federal government having an interest in the individual for employment purposes including a security clearance or access determination, and a need to evaluate qualifications, suitability, and loyalty to the United States government.

(3) To designated officers and employees of other agencies and departments of the Federal government to avoid duplication when such agency or department conducts an investigation of the individual for the purpose of granting a security clearance or access, or for the purpose of making a determination of qualifications, suitability, or loyalty to the United States government.

(4) To designated officers and employees of other agencies and departments of the Federal government having the responsibility to grant security clearance, make a determination regarding access to classified information or restricted areas, or to evaluate qualifications, suitability, or loyalty to the United States government, in connection with performance of a service to the Federal government under a contract or other agreement.

(5) To any agency of the Federal government having oversight or review authority with regard to Treasury Department activities.

(6) To the intelligence agencies of the Department of Defense, National Security Agency, Central Intelligence Agency, and the Federal Bureau of Investigation for use in intelligence activities.

(7) To any source from which information is requested in the course of an investigation, to the extent necessary to identify the individual, inform the source of the nature and purpose of the investigation, and to identify the type of information requested.

(8) In the event of an indication of any violation or potential violation of the law, whether civil, criminal, or regulatory in nature, and whether arising by statute, or by regulation, rule or order issued pursuant thereto, the relevant records in the system of records may be referred, as a routine use, to the appropriate agency, whether Federal, state, local, or foreign, charged with the responsibility of investigating or prosecuting such violation or charged with enforcing or implementing the statute, or rule, regulation or order issued pursuant thereto; such referral shall also include, and be deemed to authorize (1) any and all appropriate and necessary uses of such records in a court of law and before an administrative board or hearing, including referrals related to probation and parole matters; and (2) such other inter-agency referrals as may be necessary to carry out the receiving agency's assigned law enforcement duties.

(9) To the Department of Justice for consideration of prosecution for violation of laws regarding Federal employment, including fraud in the application, examination, or appointment, and in cases where the Department of Justice is required to represent the Department of the Treasury or any other agency or department of the Federal government.

(10) To a Federal agency, in response to its request, in connection with the letting of a contract, or the issuance of a license, grant, or other benefit by the requesting agency, to the extent that the information is relevant and necessary to the requesting agency's decision.

(11) As a data source for management information for production of summary descriptive statistics and analytical studies in support of the function for which the records are collected and maintained, or for related personnel management functions or manpower studies; may also be utilized to respond to general requests for statistical information (without personal identification of individuals) under the Freedom of Information Act or to locate specific individuals for personnel research or other personnel management functions.

(12) To any agency, department, or other branch of the Federal government having a legitimate need under statutory authority.

Treasury/OS 00.066

System name: Combined Applicant/Applicant Correspondence File—Treasury/OS.

System location: Room 2412, Main Treasury Building, Washington, D.C. 20220.

V41200 OCT 14 76 UM

Categories of individuals covered by the system: Persons who have sent applications, or have asked questions about employment in the Department of the Treasury, or whose applications or questions have been referred to the Department of the Treasury by others for reply.

Categories of records in the system: Standard Applications for Federal Employment (SF-171).

Resumes providing a reflection of such personal or job related experience as the writer elected to furnish.

Correspondence from applicants and responses thereto, ranging from general inquiries to specific complaints about alleged practices, treatment, or requirements.

Authority for maintenance of the system: Most material is not solicited though on occasion applications are sought for specific positions.

The material, generally, is related to Treasury's personnel operations carried out under various provisions of Title 5, U.S. Code.

Routine uses of records maintained in the system, including categories of users and the purposes of such uses: Employment inquiries received from applicants are routed to specific bureau personnel offices (if requested) or to all bureau personnel offices (if not specified). Should bureaus have vacancies for which outside applications are being accepted, they will be included for referral. Applicants are advised that we have referred their applications. Occasionally, applications are solicited from the general public for hard-to-fill jobs. When solicited, applicants are advised to apply directly to the bureau having the vacancy if they desire consideration. For additional routine uses see Treasury Appendix AA.

Policies and practices for storing, retrieving, accessing, retaining, and disposing of records in the system:

Storage: Records are stored in file cabinets in secured building.

Retrievability: Records are maintained in a manual filing system, indexed alphabetically and retrievable by name of applicant. In addition, a written log is maintained on all applications circulated to bureau personnel offices. The log gives name of applicant, date received, and date circulated.

Safeguards: Physical security is provided by storage in file cabinets. Only authorized personnel officials have access to the files maintained in Room 2412. These files are not available to the general public or to persons outside the personnel office who have no "need to know."

Retention and disposal: Files are maintained for a period of two years at the end of which time they are burned.

System manager(s) and address: Assistant Director of Personnel (Executive Manpower and Employment), Room 2412, Main Treasury Building, Washington, D.C. 20220.

Notification procedure: Assistant Director of Personnel (Executive Manpower and Employment), Room 2412, Main Treasury Building, Washington, D.C. 20220. Since the system is filed alphabetically, only the applicant's name is required.

Record access procedures: Assistant Director of Personnel (Executive Manpower and Employment), Room 2412, Main Treasury Building, Washington, D.C. 20220.

Contesting record procedures: See Access above.

Record source categories: Applications (SF-171, resumes) from the general public, including correspondence initially addressed to the President, Congressmen, or Senators are transmitted to this office because they deal with Treasury matters, issues, or employment.

System location: Office of the Chief, Fiscal Division, Internal Revenue Service Data Center, Box 1100, Detroit, Michigan 48232. This is the location of data processing support for the REST System.

Categories of individuals covered by the system: Employment statistics on Treasury minority groups and female employees.

Categories of records in the system: The following information is contained in the system: (1) Submitting Office Number, (2) Bureau, (3) Region, (4) Office, (5) Social Security Number, (6) Minority Designation Code, (7) Geographical Location Code, (8) Series (Occupational), (9) Pay Plan Code, (10) Grade, (11) Sex, (12) Code for Full-time, Part-time, and Intermittent, (13) Code for Seasonal (WAE), (14) Citizenship Code, (15) Supervisory Code, (16) Birth Month, (17) Birth Year, (18) Nature of Action Code, (19) Effective Date of Action, (20) On/Off Roll Code, (21) Salary (for Employees Who Do Not Have a Grade, i.e. Wage Systems, Special Emphasis, etc.)

Authority for maintenance of the system: The Civil Service Commission in the Federal Personnel Manual (Chapter 713, Subchapter 3A), establishes the full control of an automated minority group identification system under the agency Director, Equal Employment Opportunity (EEO), or his designated EEO Official.

Routine uses of records maintained in the system, including categories of users and the purposes of such uses: The centralized system for Reporting Employment Statistics in the Treasury is used to furnish statistics on employment distribution to Personnel Officers, EEO Officers and Department staff as needed. Also, a periodic report of employment statistics on distribution of minority groups and female employees is provided to all Personnel and EEO Offices. Data will be provided OMB, the White House and Congress upon request. For additional routine uses see Appendix AA.

Policies and practices for storing, retrieving, accessing, retaining, and disposing of records in the system: The Centralized Automated System for Reporting Employment Statistics is kept on a mag-tape which is the master file for minority and female statistics. Information concerning the employee is retrievable through the use of the individual's social security number. The mag-tape is not kept more than a year and is reused normally for the same or similar data. Tape data is reduced to hard copy in the form of reports.The Director, Equal Opportunity Program (EOP), is the designated Treasury official responsible to insure that minority group identification of Department employees is maintained and used in such a manner that will guard against the invasion of privacy of employees as set forth in all regulations.

System manager(s) and address: Chief, Treasury Employee Data and Payroll Division, Department of the Treasury, 15th and Pennsylvania Avenue, Washington, D.C. 20220.

Notification procedure: Office, Equal Opportunity Program, Department of the Treasury, 15th and Pennsylvania Avenue, Washington, D.C. 20220. Treasury/OS 00.111

System name: FAC 1950 Census of Blocked Chinese Assets—Treasury/OS.

System location: 1331 G Street, N.W., Washington, D.C. 20220.

Categories of individuals covered by the system: Most of these records contain reports and correspondence regarding blocked accounts of persons or firms who are nationals of the Peoples Republic of China. However, there is a small class of cases where reports were received regarding the assets of an individual subject to U.S. jurisdiction when such individual is the trustee of a Chinese national, Administrator or Executor of the estate of a Chinese national, heir of the estate of a Chinese national, etc. Most of the persons filing these reports were American corporations. However, a small number of reporters were American individuals.

The principal category is individuals residing in China who had an interest in property in the U.S. on December 18, 1950. This category would include (a) U.S. citizens who left China after December 17, 1950; and (b) non-U.S. citizens who left China after December 17, 1950, and became U.S. citizens or permanent alien residents of the U.S.

In addition, this system includes individuals in the U.S. who had acted for or on behalf of the government of the Peoples Republic of China, or individuals who had an interest in property in which there was also an interest of a Chinese national on or since December 17, 1950, for example, trusts and estates, joint accounts and partnerships.

Categories of records in the system: (6) Reports containing a brief description, including location and value, of assets in the U.S. on December 18, 1950, in which, China or a Chinese "national" (as defined in the Regulations) had any interest. (2) Correspondence regarding such reports. (3) A computer print-out summarizing the information contained in the reports.

Authority for maintenance of the system: Section 5(b) of the Trading with the Enemy Act (50 U.S.C. App., Section 5(b)). Section 500.603 of the Foreign Assets Control Regulations (31 CFR 500.603).

Routine uses of records maintained in the system, including categories of users and the purposes of such uses: The information in this system of records: (1) is used by staff to verify the accuracy of reports submitted under the 1970 Census of Blocked Chinese Assets; (2) is made available to the Chief of Enforcement, in connection with determining the present whereabouts of holders or custodians who cannot be located; (3) is made available to the Chief of Licensing for assistance in determining the propriety of the release of blocked property; (4) is made available to the Legal Section in connection with questions regarding the disposition of blocked property requiring a legal opinion; (5) is made available to the Acting Director in connection with questions regarding the property reported under the 1950 census; (6) is made available to the original holder or custodian of blocked Chinese property or his successor in interest to aid in preparation of the 1970 census report; (7) is made available to the legal representatives of persons listed in (1) to aid in preparation of the 1970 census report; (8) for additional routine uses see Appendix AA.

Policies and practices for storing, retrieving, accessing, retaining, and disposing of records in the system:

Storage: Reports and correspondence files.

Retrievability: Reports are indexed by name of holder or custodian of blocked property, by name of individual for whom blocked accounts are maintained, and by report number. Files are indexed by name of holder or custodian of blocked property or by name of individual.

Safeguards: The FAC 1950 Census of Blocked Chinese Assets records consist of documents in folders and a computer print out. Some of these files are stored in file cabinets secured by approved detachable combination locks. The room where these records are stored is manned by FAC personnel who are instructed not to admit unauthorized persons, nor to release any material from these records to persons other than FAC personnel. During off duty hours this room is locked and safeguarded by appropriate security measures. The remainder of these files are stored in a supply room which is always locked except when in use by FAC personnel.

Retention and disposal: None have been destroyed.

System manager(s) and address: Office of Foreign Assets Control, U.S. Treasury Department, Washington, D.C. 20220.

Notification procedure: Requests by an individual for notification as to whether FAC 1950 Census of Blocked Chinese Assets records contain information relating to him should be—(a) Mailed: Office of Foreign Assets Control, U.S. Treasury Department, Washington, D.C. 20220. (b) Presented in person: Office of Foreign Assets Control, 1331 G. Street N.W., Room 500, Washington, D.C.

Record access procedures: Requests for information on gaining access to or contesting of information contained in Foreign Assets Control 1950 Census of Blocked Chinese Assets records should be mailed to: Director, Office of Foreign Assets Control, U.S. Treasury Department, Washington, D.C. 20220.

Contesting record procedures: See Access above.

Record source categories: Serves as a central point for locating correspondence of a general nature handled by the Disclosure Staff which is not otherwise processed under any other system of records reported by the Disclosure Staff. For example, this system of records contains requests for address information; inquiries from members of Congress, both on their own behalf and those of their constituents; requests from Governors to inspect out of state tax returns; and requests for general information about the Service's disclosure practices and policies. In most cases, the file contains only the incoming request and reply. On occasion, the file may contain memoranda to further clarify the request or to seek additional information to satisfy the nature of the inquiry. For the most part, information required to respond to these inquiries is obtained from the National Computer Center, showing the latest address on record for the taxpayer, or information may be obtained from field offices concerning the individual tax affairs of the persons making the inquiry or who are of interest to the persons making the request. This information would include data from the individual's income tax return, that supplemental to it, and that obtained by the Service in its examination or investigation. In some instances, information directly bearing on the request would be obtained from functions within the National Office, such as the Audit Division, to clarify a matter within their jurisdiction.

(See IRS Appendix A)

Notification procedure: Individuals seeking to determine if the system of records contains a record pertaining to themselves may inquire in accordance with instructions appearing at 31 CFR Part 1, Subpart C, Appendix B. Inquiries should be addressed to the official to whom the requester has submitted Freedom of Information Act or Privacy Act correspondence, the official who has responded to such correspondence, or the Director, Disclosure Operations Division. (See IRS Appendix A).

Record access procedures: Individuals seeking access to any record contained in the system of records or seeking to contest its content, may inquire in accordance with instructions appearing at 31 CFR Part 1, Subpart C, Appendix B. Inquiries should be addressed to the official to whom the requester has submitted Freedom of Information Act or Privacy Act correspondence, the official who has responded to such correspondence or the Director, Disclosure Operations Division. (See IRS Appendix A).

Taxpayers seeking to adjust records which affect the determination of a tax assessment or the balance due, should utilize existing procedures for doing so, as substantive tax matters are not subject to the amendment provisions of the Privacy Act.

Contesting record procedures: See Access above.

Record source categories: The system may duplicate all or portions of any Internal Revenue Service record to which a request relates; the requester himself is therefore the determinant of the sources of the records contained.

Systems exempted from certain provisions of the act: Information from an exempt system of records duplicated in this system of records retains the exempt status.

Treasury/IRS 48.004

System name: Pre-Employment Tax Check for Executive Departments, Disclosure—Treasury/IRS.

System location: National Office and District Offices. (See IRS Appendix A).

Categories of individuals covered by the system: Persons who have applied for employment on the White House Staff, with offices of Treasury (other than IRS), with the Department of Justice, the State Department, the Export Import Bank, or the Department of Agriculture. Persons being considered for Presidential appointment, for appointment to the National Security Counsel, or for appointment to an IRS Advisory Panel. Persons connected with applicants for "E" Awards, which are awarded by the Department of Commerce. For additional routine uses see Appendix AA.

Categories of records in the system: Employment applications, Records of tax filing status, payment status, civil and criminal investigation status.

Authority for maintenance of the system: 26 U.S.C. 7801 and 7802, 5 U.S.C. 301.

Routine uses of records maintained in the system, including categories of users and the purposes of such uses: To executive departments requesting the tax check as specified in the Sources Section. Routine disclosure of information contained in this system of records may be made to the Department of Justice in connection with actual or potential criminal prosecution or civil litigation, and in connection with requests for legal advice. Disclosure may be made during judicial processes. For additional routine uses see Appendix AA.

Policies and practices for storing, retrieving, accessing, retaining, and disposing of records in the system:

Storage: The files (paper records) are maintained in file folders arranged in alphabetical order in locked cabinets.

Retrievability: Records within the system are retrieved through reference to an alphabetical index.

Safeguards: Safeguards will be not less than provided for by the Physical and Document Security Handbook, IRM 1(16)41.

Retention and disposal: Records Control Schedule 115, IRM 1(15)59, provides that routine tax check cases be disposed of after seven years. Those cases which have historical significance are retained.

Treasury/Customs 00.001

System name: Acceptable Level of Competence, Negative Determination—Treasury/Customs.

System location: Personnel Management Division, U.S. Customs Service, Region I, John F. Kennedy Federal Building, Boston, Massachusetts 02203.

Categories of individuals covered by the system: Any employee of U.S. Customs Service Region I, who receives a negative determination regarding acceptable level of competence.

Categories of records in the system: Employee's name, social security number, position description, grade, and correspondence containing specific reasons for negative determination.

Authority for maintenance of the system: Five U.S.C. 301; Reorganization Plan No. 1 of 1950; Treasury Department Order No. 165, Revised, as amended.

Routine uses of records maintained in the system, including categories of users and the purposes of such uses: The routine uses of the records contained in this system of records are as follows: (a) Disclosure to those officers and employees of the Customs Service and the Department of the Treasury who have a need for the records in the performance of their duties; such uses include general reference to the records by supervisors when considering appropriate actions to take with regard to the individuals; (b) Disclosures required in administration of the Freedom of Information Act (5 U.S.C. 552); (c) In the event that this system of records includes information which indicates a violation or potential violation of law, whether civil, criminal, or regulatory in nature, and whether arising by general statute or particular program statute, or by regulation, rule, or order issued pursuant thereto, the relevant records in the system of records may be referred, as a routine use, to the appropriate agency, whether Federal, state, local, or foreign, charged with the responsibility of investigating or prosecuting such violation or charged with enforcing or implementing the statute, or rule, regulation, or order issued pursuant thereto; (d) A record from this system of records may be disclosed as a "routine use" to a Federal, state, or local agency maintaining civil, criminal, or other relevant enforcement information or other pertinent information, such as current licenses, if necessary to obtain information relevant to an agency decision concerning the hiring or retention of an employee, the issuance of a security clearance, the letting of a contract, or the issuance of a license, grant, or other benefit; (e) A record from this system of records may be disclosed to a Federal agency, in response to its request, in connection with the hiring or retention of an employee, the issuance of a security clearance, the reporting of an investigation of an employee, the letting of a contract, or the issuance of a license, grant, or other benefit by the requesting agency, to the extent that the information is relevant and necessary to the requesting agency's decision on the matter.

For additional routine uses see Appendix AA.

Policies and practices for storing, retrieving, accessing, retaining, and disposing of records in the system:

Storage: Records are maintained in file folders and stored in locked file cabinets.

Retrievability: The records are filed by the individual's name.

Safeguards: Direct access is limited to the Director and five employees of the Personnel Division. In addition to being stored in locked cabinets, the area in which these records are stored is locked during non-duty hours and the building is guarded by uniformed security police.

Retention and disposal: Records are retained until the employee leaves the Customs Service.

System manager(s) and address: Director, Personnel Management Division, U.S. Customs Service, Region I, John F. Kennedy Federal Building, Boston, Massachusetts 02203.

Notification procedure: Requests by an individual to be notified if the system of records contains records pertaining to him shall be in writing and directed to the Regional Commissioner of the region in which the records are located (see Customs Appendix A), or to the Director, Entry Procedures and Penalties Division, Office of Regulations and Rulings, U.S. Customs Service Headquarters, 1301 Constitution Avenue N.W., Washington, D.C. 20229. The requester will be notified in writing of the procedures to be followed. Where the request is presented in person, the requester shall present adequate identification to establish his identity, and a comparison of his signature and those in the records may be made where the records contain the necessary signature.

If an individual can provide no suitable documents for identification, he may be required to make a signed statement asserting identity and stipulating that he understands that knowingly or willfully seeking or obtaining access to records about another person under false pretenses is punishable by a fine up to five thousand dollars.

Where the request is not presented in person, it shall be accompanied by a notarized statement executed by the requester asserting identity and stipulating that he understands that knowingly or willfully seeking or obtaining access to records about another person under false pretenses is punishable by a fine up to five thousand dollars. A comparison of his signature and those in the records may be made where the records contain the necessary signature.

Record access procedures: Requests by an individual to be notified how he can gain access to a record pertaining to him contained in a system of records, and how he can contest its content shall be in writing and directed to the Regional Commissioner of the region in which the records are located (see Customs Appendix A), or to the Director, Entry Procedures and Penalties Division, Office of Regulations and Rulings, U.S. Customs Service Headquarters, 1301 Constitution Avenue, N.W., Washington, D.C. 20229. The requester will be notified in writing of the procedures to be followed. Where the request is presented in person, the requester shall present adequate identification to establish his identity, and a comparison of his signature and those in the records may be made where the records contain the necessary signature.

If an individual can provide no suitable documents for identification, he may be required to make a signed statement asserting identity and stipulating that he understands that knowingly or willfully seeking or obtaining access to records about another person under false pretenses is punishable by a fine up to five thousand dollars.

Where the request is not presented in person, it shall be accompanied by a notarized statement executed by the requester asserting identity and stipulating that he understands that knowingly or willfully seeking or obtaining access to records about another person under false pretenses is punishable by a fine up to five thousand dollars. A comparison of his signature and those in the records may be made where the records contain the necessary signature.

Contesting record procedures: See Access above.

System name: Boarding Report—Treasury/Customs.

System location: Office of the Director, District Patrol, Suite 2800, Plaza Tower Bldg., 1001 Howard Ave., New Orleans, La. 70113; Dir., District Patrol Division, Rm. 213, International Trade Center, 250 N. Water Street, Mobile, AL 36602.

Categories of individuals covered by the system: All suspect vessels and/or boats that information has been received on indicating unlawful or suspicious activity requiring a Customs search.

Categories of records in the system: Regional form giving name of vessel, registration number, boarding date, hailing port, documentation port, name and address of master and all other important information pertaining to suspect vessel or boat.

Authority for maintenance of the system: 5 U.S.C. 301; Reorganization Plan No. 1 of 1950; Treasury Department Order No. 165, Revised, as amended.

Routine uses of records maintained in the system, including categories of users and the purposes of such uses: The routine uses of the records contained in this system of records are as follows: (a) Disclosure to those officers and employees of the Customs Service and the Department of the Treasury who have a need for the records in the performance of their duties; (b) Disclosures required in the administration of the Freedom of Information Act (5 U.S.C. 552); (c) In the event that this system of records includes information which indicates a violation or potential violation of law, whether civil, criminal, or regulatory in nature, and whether arising by general statute or particular program statute, or by regulation, rule, or order issued pursuant thereto, the relevant records in the system of records may be referred, as a routine use, to the appropriate agency, whether Federal, state, local, or foreign, charged with the responsibility of investigating or prosecuting such violation or charged with enforcing or implementing the statute, or rule, regulation, or order issued pursuant thereto; (d) A record from this system of records may be disclosed as a "routine use" to a Federal, state, or local agency maintaining civil, criminal, or other relevant enforcement information or other pertinent information, such as current licenses, if necessary to obtain information relevant to an agency decision concerning the hiring or retention of an employee, the issuance of a security clearance, the letting of a contract, or the issuance of a license, grant, or other benefit; (e) A record from this system of records may be disclosed to a Federal agency, in response to its request, in connection with the hiring or retention of an employee, the issuance of a security clearance, the reporting of an investigation of an employee, the letting of a contract, or the issuance of a license, grant, or other benefit by the requesting agency, to the extent that the information is relevant and necessary to the requesting agency's decision on the matter.

For additional routine uses see Appendix AA.

Policies and practices for storing, retrieving, accessing, retaining, and disposing of records in the system:

Storage: Records maintained in standard Customs file folders in locked metal cabinets.

Retrievability: System is filed alphabetically by name of vessel owner.

Safeguards: File maintained in locked metal file cabinet, the keys of which are controlled by the custodian of the files. Those departmental officials who may occasionally be granted access consistent with their positions, have been cleared by a full field background investigation and granted appropriate security clearance for critical sensitive positions. During non-working hours, the room housing the metal cabinet is locked.

Retention and disposal: Boarding Reports are normally destroyed after 3 years. On active cases, files could presumably be retained for duration of interest in vessel. Disposal is by means of shredding.

System manager(s) and address: Director, District Patrol Division, Suite 2800, Plaza Tower Bldg., 1001 Howard Ave., New Orleans, La. 70113.

Systems exempted from certain provisions of the act: The Commissioner of Customs pursuant to 5 U.S.C. 552a (j) and/or (k) has proposed to exempt this system of records from certain requirements of 5 U.S.C. 552a. The provisions of 5 U.S.C. 552a from which this system of records is proposed to be exempted and the justification for the exemption is contained in a general notice which appears elsewhere in the Federal Register.

Treasury/Customs 00.035

Routine uses of records maintained in the system, including categories of users and the purposes of such uses: The routine uses of the records contained in this system of records are as follows: (a) Disclosure to those officers and employees of the Customs Service and the Department of the Treasury who have a need for the records in the performance of their duties; (b) Disclosures required in administration of the Freedom of Information Act (5 U.S.C. 552); (c) In the event that this system of records includes information which indicates a violation or potential violation of law, whether civil, criminal, or regulatory in nature, and whether arising by general statute or particular program statute, or by regulation, rule, or order issued pursuant thereto, the relevant records in the system of records may be referred, as a routine use, to the appropriate agency, whether Federal, state, local, or foreign, charged with the responsibility of investigating or prosecuting such violation or charged with enforcing or implementing the statute, or rule, regulation, or order issued pursuant thereto; (d) A record from this system of records may be disclosed as a "routine use" to a Federal, state, or local agency maintaining civil, criminal, or other relevant enforcement information or other pertinent information, such as if necessary to obtain information relevant to an agency decision concerning the letting of a contract, or the issuance of a license, grant, or other benefit; (e) A record from this system of records may be disclosed to a federal agency, in response to its request, in connection with the hiring or retention of an employee, the issuance of a security clearance, the reporting of an investigation of an employee, the letting of a contract, or the issuance of a license, grant, or other benefit by the requesting agency, to the extent that the information is relevant and necessary to the requesting agency's decision on the matter; (f) Routine uses of the records contained in the system are for the processing and evaluation of complaints and claims submitted in adverse actions, equal employment opportunity complaints, grievances, tort claims, criminal investigations, civil investigations, collection efforts, employment actions, and personnel actions; (g) Routine uses include reference for the processing of claims; continuous updating of the records necessary for the processing of claims; references to the files for the satisfaction of claims and closing cases by or against the United States Customs Service within Region V; submission of copies of records to the General Services Administration and the Justice Department for prosecution of criminal and civil violations and collections; submissions of copies of records to various branches of the United States Customs Service within Region V for the purposes of investigating and/or processing outstanding civil and criminal cases, collection cases, tort claims, and various personnel actions; (h) The purposes of such uses include the processing of all of the abovecited claims by the Office of the Regional Counsel and the preparation of legal memoranda to various department heads and other agencies to expedite the ordinary course of business of the United States Customs Service within and without Region V.

For additional routine uses see Appendix AA.

Policies and practices for storing, retrieving, accessing, retaining, and disposing of records in the system:

Storage: The records are currently maintained in alphabetical file folders which are filed in two steel filing cabinets in the Office of the Regional Counsel, Region V, and they are maintained under lock and key outside the ordinary business hours.

Retrievability: Records maintained by the Office of the Regional Counsel, Region V, are retrievable by identifying the character of the record (i.e., adverse action, grievance, tort claim, criminal case), then by comparable statute or regulation, and then alphabetically by name and identifier. In addition, each case file is similarly identified on the alphabetical file folder within the steel filing cabinet.

Safeguards: (a) The steel filing cabinets described above are maintained within the area assigned to the Office of the Regional Counsel within the U.S. Postal Service Building, Room T-13021, 701 Loyola Avenue, New Orleans, Louisiana 70113. During non-working hours the room in which the locked steel cabinets are located is locked, and access to the building is controlled at all times by uniformed guards; (b) The policies and practices of the Office of the Regional Counsel regarding access controls are that only members of the staff of the Office of the Regional Counsel have access to the records maintained by the office.

Retention and disposal: (a) Records collected by this office are currently retained on a permanent basis as the office has only been in operation since August 1973; (b) Individual records are not disposed of by the Office of the Regional Counsel, Region V, and are simply placed into a further file of closed cases by category as stated above, and within each category by name. However, when applicable, this office will comply with appropriate disposal regulations whereby the oldest closed cases will be forwarded to the Federal Records Center in accordance with the Treasury Records Control Manual.

System manager(s) and address: The agency official responsible for the system of records maintained by the Office of the Regional Counsel is the Regional Counsel, Region V, United States Customs Service, Room T-13021, 701 Loyola Avenue, New Orleans, Louisiana 70113.

will be notified in writing of the procedures to be followed. Where the request is presented in person, the requester shall present adequate identification to establish his identity; and a comparison of his signature and those in the records may be made where the records contain the necessary signature.

If an individual can provide no suitable documents for identification, he may be required to make a signed statement asserting identity and stipulating that he understands that knowingly or willfully seeking or obtaining access to records about another person under false pretenses is punishable by a fine up to five thousand dollars.

Where the request is not presented in person, it shall be accompanied by a notarized statement executed by the requester asserting identity and stipulating that he understands that knowingly or willfully seeking or obtaining access to records about another person under false pretenses is punishable by a fine up to five thousand dollars. A comparison of his signature and those in the records may be made where the records contain the necessary signature.

Record source categories: The categories of sources of records in this system are the individual himself and files compiled by the United States Customs Services by using employers, other government agency resources, financial institutions, educational institutions attended, and previous employers.

Additional information in these files is also derived from reports of investigation regarding the enforcement of civil or criminal statutes, administrative proceedings regarding disciplinary action taken against Customs Service employees, equal opportunity complaints, investigations of tort claims, the processing of inter-office memoranda information requested under the Freedom of Information Act, and the investigation regarding the collection of debts due the Government.

Systems exempted from certain provisions of the act: The Commissioner of Customs pursuant to 5 U.S.C. 552a (j) and/or (k) has proposed to exempt this system of records from certain requirements of 5 U.S.C. 552a. The provisions of 5 U.S.C. 552a from which this system of records is proposed to be exempted and the justification for the exemption is contained in a general notice which appears elsewhere in the Federal Register.

Retention and disposal: Claim files are retained indefinitely or until there is no longer any space available for them within the metal file cabinet, at which time the oldest files may be transferred to the Federal Records Center.

System manager(s) and address: Regional Counsel, 15th Floor, 450 Golden Gate Ave., San Francisco, CA 94102.

Notification procedure: Requests by an individual to be notified if the system of records contains records pertaining to him shall be in writing and directed to the Regional Commissioner of the region in which the records are located (see Customs Appendix A), or to the Director, Entry Procedures and Penalties Division, Office of Regulations and Rulings, U.S. Customs Service Headquarters, 1301 Constitution Avenue, N.W., Washington, D.C. 20229. The requester will be notified in writing of the procedures to be followed. Where the request is presented in person, the requester shall present adequate identification to establish his identity, and a comparison of his signature and those in the records may be made where the records contain the necessary signature.

If an individual can provide no suitable documents for identification, he may be required to make a signed statement asserting identity and stipulating that he understands that knowingly or willfully seeking or obtaining access to records about another person under false pretenses is punishable by a fine up to 5,000 dollars.

Where the request is not presented in person, it shall be accompanied by a notarized statement executed by the requester asserting identity and stipulating that he understands that knowingly or willfully seeking or obtaining access to records about another person under false pretenses is punishable by a fine up to 5,000 dollars. A comparison of his signature and those in the records may be made where the records contain the necessary signature.

Record source categories: The information contained in the Federal Tort Claim files originates with a Standard Form 95, Claim for Damage or Injury, which is completed and filed with the Customs Service by the claimant. Investigations are conducted by authorized Customs Service investigative personnel in order to determine the facts surrounding the claims. During these investigations information may be elicited from Customs Service employees, private persons, or any other parties who may have information regarding the facts surrounding the claims.

The information contained in the Military Personnel and Civilian Employees Claims Act files originates with a Treasury Department Form No. 3079, Civilian Employee Claim For Loss or Damage to Personal Property, which is completed and filed with the Customs Service by the claimant. Additional information contained in these files may be separately provided by the claimant or by the claimant's supervisor.

Information contained in the files concerning property damage claims by the Government originates with a report by a Government employee of an incident or of facts from which it appears that the Government may have a claim. Based upon the reports, investigations are conducted to determine the facts surrounding the claims. During the investigations information may be elicited from Customs Service employees, private persons, or any other parties who may have information regarding the facts surrounding the claims.

Systems exempted from certain provisions of the act: The Commissioner of Customs pursuant to 5 U.S.C. 552a (j) and/or (k) has proposed to exempt this system of records from certain requirements of 5 U.S.C. 552a. The provisions of 5 U.S.C. 552a from which this system of records is proposed to be exempted and the justification for the exemption is contained in a general notice which appears elsewhere in the Federal Register.

System name: Confidential Source Identification File—Treasury/Customs.

System location: Office of Investigations, U.S. Customs Service Headquarters, 1301 Constitution Avenue, N.W., Washington, D.C. 20229.

Categories of individuals covered by the system: Individuals (Sources) supplying confidential information to the U.S. Customs Service, Office of Investigations.

Categories of records in the system: This system contains some or all of the following information: name (actual or assumed), source (identifying) number, date number assigned, address, citizenship, date and place of birth, physical description, photograph, Social Security number, FBI number, passport number, Customs Form 4621 documenting information received from confidential source, amount and date of monetary payment made to source for information supplied, criminal record, copy of driver's license, and copy of alien registration card.

Authority for maintenance of the system: 5 U.S.C. 301; Reorganization Plan No. 1 of 1950; Treasury Department Order No. 165, Revised, as amended; 19 U.S.C. 2072, Title 19, United States Code; Title 18, United States Code.

Routine uses of records maintained in the system, including categories of users and the purposes of such uses: This information is primarily for the exclusive internal use of authorized employees of the Office of Investigations in connection with civil and criminal investigations and in connection with payments made for information received. Stringent controls are placed upon access to the files, even among Office of Investigations personal. In extremely rare and unusual situations, information with full source concurrence may be supplied to such organizations as Federal, state, and/or other law enforcement or prosecutorial agencies as the demands of law or justice might require.

Policies and practices for storing, retrieving, accessing, retaining, and disposing of records in the system:

Storage: Data is stored in a metal storage cabinet which remains locked except when momentarily opened for filing purposes.

Retrievability: The name of each source is filed in both alphabetical order and by location of the submitting office.

Safeguards: In addition to being stored in secure metal cabinets with government approved locks, the metal files are located in a closely watched room of the Office of Investigations. Personnel maintaining the files are selected for their reliability, among other qualities, and afforded access only after having been cleared by a full field investigation. During non-working hours the room in which the records are located is locked and access to the building is controlled by uniformed security guards.

Retention and disposal: Indefinite retention periods have been established for all records contained in the file. When a file no longer has any utility it is destroyed by either shredding or burning.

System manager(s) and address: Assistant Commissioner, Office of Investigations, U.S. Customs Service Headquarters, 1301 Constitution Avenue, N.W., Washington, D.C. 20229.

Systems exempted from certain provisions of the act: The Commissioner of Customs pursuant to 5 U.S.C. 552a (j) and/or (k) has proposed to exempt this system of records from certain requirements of 5 U.S.C. 552a. The provisions of 5 U.S.C. 552a from which this system of records is proposed to be exempted and the justification for the exemption are contained in a general notice which appears elsewhere in the Federal Register.

Contesting record procedures: See Access above.

Record source categories: The information in this file originates from the individual applicant for container station operator bond, from reports of investigation and other Customs memoranda.

Systems exempted from certain provisions of the act: The Commissioner of Customs pursuant to 5 U.S.C. 552a (j) and/or (k) has proposed to exempt this system of records from certain requirements of 5 U.S.C. 552a. The provisions of 5 U.S.C. 552a from which this system of records is proposed to be exempted and the justification for the exemption is contained in a general notice which appears elsewhere in the Federal Register.

Treasury/Customs 00.058

System name: Cooperating Individual Files—Treasury/Customs.

System location: These files are located in regional and local Customs Patrol Offices within the United States. See Customs Appendix A.

Categories of individuals covered by the system: Persons providing confidential information to the U.S. Customs Service Patrol Division.

Categories of records in the system: These records include: assumed names; actual names; code numbers; addresses; telephone numbers; physical descriptions; miscellaneous identifying numbers such as Social Security numbers, driver's license number, etc.; date individual's record was established; amount and date of reward paid for information supplied.

Authority for maintenance of the system: 5 U.S.C. 301; Reorganization Plan No. 1 of 1950; Treasury Department Order No. 165, Revised, as amended.

Routine uses of records maintained in the system, including categories of users and the purposes of such uses: The information in this system is used primarily by the Customs Patrol Officer who receives confidential information for the purpose of detecting and apprehending suspected violators of Customs and related laws, and for the purpose of processing the payment of rewards for information received. Disclosure may be made only in extremely rare and unusual situations when demands of law or justice require that information be supplied to such organizations as Federal, state and/or other agencies.

For additional routine uses see Appendix AA.

Policies and practices for storing, retrieving, accessing, retaining, and disposing of records in the system:

Storage: All files and indices relating to cooperating individuals are stored in metal file cabinets secured with combination locks in a government secured building.

Retrievability: The name of each cooperating individual is filed in alphabetical order by assumed name and by actual name. The indices are maintained in the same alphabetical order and are also cross-referenced by the Patrol Division alpha numeric code number. All other indentifying data is used for verification of identity rather than method of retrieval.

Safeguards: In addition to being stored in secure metal cabinets with government approved locks, the metal files are kept locked when not in use and located in a closely watched room of the Patrol Division. Personnel maintaining the files are selected for their reliability among other qualities, and they are afforded access only after having been cleared by a full field investigation. The files are given the same treatment as material classified as Secret. During duty hours, Patrol Division personnel maintain visual control and during off-duty hours the area containing the files is locked.

Retention and disposal: Indefinite retention periods have been established for almost all records contained in the file. When a file no longer has any utility, it is destroyed by either shredding or burning.

System manager(s) and address: The Regional Patrol Director in Regional Customs Patrol Offices; the District Patrol Director in District Patrol Offices; and the Supervisory Customs Patrol Officer in suboffices of District Customs Patrol. See Customs Appendix A.

Categories of records in the system: Litigation report requests and responses thereto, reports of investigations, internal Customs Service memoranda summarizing or relating to the matter in controversy and other background information relating to the subject matter or origin of the litigation.

Authority for maintenance of the system: 5 U.S.C. 301, Reorganization Plan No. 1 of 1950; Treasury Department Order No. 165, Revised, as amended; Reorganization Plan No. 1 of 1965. 28 U.S.C. 507, 19 U.S.C. 1603, E.O. 6166.

Routine uses of records maintained in the system, including categories of users and the purposes of such uses: The routine uses of the records contained in this system of records are as follows: (a) Disclosure to those officers and employees of the Customs Service and the Department of the Treasury who have a need for the records in the performance of their duties; (b) Disclosure required in administration of the Freedom of Information Act (5 U.S.C. 552); (c) Information contained in these files is routinely provided to the Department of Justice or individual U.S. Attorneys upon request to assist that Department or individual U.S. Attorney in representing the interests of the Government, the agency or officer or employee involved in the litigation, or to other agencies involved in the same or similar litigation. Files are often channeled through the office of the Chief Counsel of Customs and the Treasury Department; (d) Information contained in these files may also be used internally by the Regional Counsel or members of his staff insofar as it relates to precedent or guidelines for handling subsequent cases.

For additional routine uses see Appendix AA.

Policies and practices for storing, retrieving, accessing, retaining, and disposing of records in the system:

Storage: Each case file is inserted in an alphabetical file folder which is filed in an unlocked drawer within a metal file cabinet.

Retrievability: Each case file is identified in a manual alphabetical card file by the name of the person who initiated the litigation against the Government, agency, officer or employee or by the name of the person against whom the Government initiated the litigation. In addition each case file is similarly identified on the alphabetical file folder within the metal file cabinet.

Safeguards: The metal file cabinet described above is maintained within the area assigned to the Regional Counsel within the Federal Building, 450 Golden Gate Ave., San Francisco. During non-working hours the room in which the metal file cabinet is located is locked, and access to the building is controlled at all times by uniformed guards.

Retention and disposal: These files are retained indefinitely or until there is no longer any space available for them within the metal file cabinet, at which time some files may be transferred to the Federal Records Center.

System manager(s) and address: Regional Counsel, Room 15001, United States Customs Service, 450 Golden Gate Ave., San Francisco, Calif. 94102.

Notification procedure: Requests by an individual to be notified if the system of records contains records pertaining to him shall be in writing and directed to the Regional Commissioner of the region in which the records are located (see Customs Appendix A), or to the Director, Entry Procedures and Penalties Division, Office of Regulations and Rulings, U.S. Customs Service Headquarters, 1301 Constitution Avenue, N.W., Washington, D.C. 20229. The requester will be notified in writing of the procedures to be followed. Where the request is presented in person, the requester shall present adequate identification to establish his identity, and a comparison of his signature and those in the records may be made where the records contain the necessary signature.

If an individual can provide no suitable documents for identification, he may be required to make a signed statement asserting identity and stipulating that he understands that knowingly or willfully seeking or obtaining access to records about another person under false pretenses is punishable by a fine up to 5,000 dollars.

Where the request is not presented in person, it shall be accompanied by a notarized statement executed by the requester asserting identity and stipulating that he understands that knowingly or willfully seeking or obtaining access to records about another person under false pretenses is punishable by a fine up to 5,000 dollars. A comparison of his signature and those in the records may be made where the records contain the necessary signature.

Record source categories: The information contained in these files originates with the receipt of a litigation report request from the Department of Justice or an individual United States Attorney which results in a written report to that Department or U.S. Attorney regarding the facts of the particular case. Information in this file is also derived from reports of investigation regarding the enforcement of civil or criminal statutes, administrative proceedings regarding disciplinary action taken against Customs Service employees, equal employment opportunity complaints, denials of tort claims, denials of information requested under the Freedom of Information Act, and the collection of debts due the Government.

Systems exempted from certain provisions of the act: The Commissioner of Customs pursuant to 5 U.S.C. 552a (j) and/or (k) has proposed to exempt this system of records from certain requirements of 5 U.S.C. 552a. The provisions of 5 U.S.c. 552a from which this system of records is proposed to be exempted and the justification for the exemption is contained in a general notice which appears elsewhere in the Federal Register.

Categories of records in the system: Court pleadings, litigation report requests and responses thereto, reports of investigations, internal Customs Service memoranda summarizing or relating to the matter in controversy and other background information relating to the subject matter or origin of litigation.

Authority for maintenance of the system: 28 U.S.C. 2676, 19 U.S.C. 1603, 28 U.S.C. 2671 et. seq.; 5 U.S.C. 301; Reorganization Plan No. 1 of 1950; Treasury Department Order No. 165, Revised, as amended.

Routine uses of records maintained in the system, including categories of users and the purposes of such uses: The routine uses of the records contained in this system of records are as follows: (a) Disclosure to those officers and employees of the Customs Service and Department of the Treasury who have a need for the records in the performance of their duties; (b) Disclosure required in administration of the Freedom of Information Act (5 U.S.C. 552); (c) In the event that this system of records includes information which indicates a violation or potential violation of law, whether civil, criminal, or regulatory in nature, and whether arising by general statute or particular program statute, or by regulation, rule, or order issued pursuant thereto, the relevant records in the system of records may be referred, as a routine use, to the appropriate agency, whether Federal, state, local, or foreign, charged with the responsibility of investigating or prosecuting such violation or charged with enforcing or implementing the statute, or rule, regulation, or order issued pursuant thereto; (d) A record from this system of records may be disclosed as a "routine use" to a Federal, state, or local agency maintaining civil, criminal, or other relevant enforcement information or other pertinent information, such as current licenses, if necessary to obtain information relevant to an agency decision concerning the hiring or retention of an employee, the issuance of a security clearance, the letting of a contract, or the issuance of a license, grant, or other benefit; (e) A record from this system of records may be disclosed to a Federal agency, in response to its request, in connection with the hiring or retention of an employee, the issuance of a security clearance, the reporting of an investigation of an employee, the letting of a contract, or the issuance of a license, grant, or other benefit by the requesting agency, to the extent that the information is relevant and necessary to the requesting agency's decision on the matter; (f) Information contained in this file is provided as a routine use to the Department of Justice to assist that department in representing the interest of the Government, the agency or officer involved in the litigation, or to other agencies involved in the same or similar litigations. Files are often channeled through the Department of the Treasury.

For additional routine uses see Appendix AA.

Policies and practices for storing, retrieving, accessing, retaining, and disposing of records in the system:

Storage: Each case file is inserted in a file folder which is filed in a lockable drawer within a metal filing cabinet container.

Retrievability: Each case file is identified in a manual alphabetical card file by the name of the plaintiff in a proceeding against the U.S. Government, Customs Service, and/or employee, or by the name of the defendant in proceedings brought by the government. In addition, each case file is similarly identified on the file folder with the alphabetical name on the file which is placed and located within the metal container.

Safeguards: The metal file drawer containing the files described above is maintained within the area assigned to the office of the Regional Counsel, Region IX, at 55 E. Monroe Street, Chicago, Illinois. During non-working hours, the room in which the metal filing drawer is located is locked, the file container itself is locked, and access to the building is controlled at all times by uniformed guards with a check-in system for employees. Only employees of the Regional Counsel's office and authorized building personnel have keys to the building.

Retention and disposal: These files are retained indefinitely or until there is no longer space available for them within the metal filing cabinet at which time the oldest files are transferred to the storage area within the confines of the office. The storage area is a large area containing cardboard boxes and metal storage cabinets which are not able to be locked. Files which are closed and not retained for precedent purposes are retired to the Federal Records Center, General Services Administration, 7358 S. Pulaski, Chicago, Illinois 60602, in accordance with the U.S. Customs Service Records Disposal Manual.

System manager(s) and address: Regional Counsel of Customs, Room 1417, United States Customs Service, 55 E. Monroe Street, Chicago, Illinois 60603.

Notification procedure: Requests by an individual to be notified if the system of records contains records pertaining to him shall be in writing and directed to the Regional Commissioner of the region in which the records are located (see Customs Appendix A), or to the Director, Entry Procedures and Penalties Division, Office of Regulations and Rulings, U.S. Customs Service Headquarters, 1301 Constitution Avenue, N.W., Washington, D.C. 20229. The requester will be notified in writing of the procedures to be followed. Where the request is presented in person, the requester shall present adequate identification to establish his identity, and a comparison of his signature and those in the records may be made where the records contain the necessary signature.

If an individual can provide no suitable documents for identification, he may be required to make a signed statement asserting identity and stipulating that he understands that knowingly or willfully seeking or obtaining access to records about another person under false pretenses is punishable by a fine up to 5,000 dollars.

Where the request is not presented in person, it shall be accompanied by a notarized statement executed by the requester asserting identity and stipulating that he understands that knowingly or willfully seeking or obtaining access to records about another person under false pretenses is punishable by a fine up to 5,000 dollars. A comparison of his signature and those in the records may be made where the records contain the necessary signature.

Record source categories: The information contained in these files originates with the receipt of a litigation report request from the Department of Justice which is channeled through the Treasury Department, or with the receipt of a court pleading from one of the members of the U.S. Customs Service. Information in this file is derived from reports of investigations regarding the enforcement of civil or criminal statutes, administrative proceedings regarding disciplinary action taken against Customs Service employees, equal opportunity complaints, denials of tort claims plus tort claim information, denials of information under the Freedom of Information Act request, and the collection of debts due the Government.

Systems exempted from certain provisions of the act: The Commissioner of Customs pursuant to 5 U.S.C. 552a (j) and/or (k) has proposed to exempt this system of records from certain requirements of 5 U.S.C. 552a. The provisions of 5 U.S.C. 552a from which this system of records is proposed to be exempted and the justification for the exemption is contained in a general notice which appears elsewhere in the Federal Register.

System name: Credit Card File—Treasury/Customs.

System location: Logistics Management Division, U.S. Customs Service Headquarters, 1301 Constitution Avenue, N.W., Washington, D.C. 20229.

Categories of individuals covered by the system: Headquarters Customs Service Employees to whom national gasoline credit cards and Hertz and Avis automobile rental cards have been issued.

Categories of records in the system: Credit card numbers, names, and signatures of employees to whom credit cards have been issued, and the date of issuance.

Authority for maintenance of the system: 5 U.S.C. 301; Reorganization Plan No. 1 of 1950; Treasury Department Order No. 165, Revised, as amended.

Routine uses of records maintained in the system, including categories of users and the purposes of such uses: The routine uses of the records contained in this system of records are as follows: (a) Disclosure to those officers and employees of the Customs Service and the Department of the Treasury who have a need for the records in the performance of their duties. Such duties may include: maintaining an inventory of gasoline credit cards and automobile rental cards which are assigned to high level Customs Service officials or which are issued on a one transaction basis to other Customs Service officials or employees for their use in connection with the performance of their official duties; ensuring accountability for the cards issued; and providing a means for collecting issued cards when they are no longer needed by the officers or employees to whom they were issued; (b) Disclosure required in the administration of the Freedom of Information Act (5 U.S.C. 552); (c) In the event that this system of records includes information which indicates a violation or potential violation of law, whether civil, criminal, or regulatory in nature, and whether arising by general statute or particular program statute, or by regulation, rule, or order issued pursuant thereto, the relevant records in the system of records may be referred, as routine use, to the appropriate agency, whether Federal, state, local, or foreign, charged with the responsibility of investigating or prosecuting such violation or charged with enforcing or implementing the statute, or rule, regulation, or order issued pursuant thereto.

For additional routine uses see Appendix AA.

Policies and practices for storing, retrieving, accessing, retaining, and disposing of records in the system:

Storage: The information in this system is contained on index cards which are placed in a locked metal file cabinet within one office.

Retrievability: A portion of the index cards are identified by the name of the person to whom the credit card was issued in the case of credit cards which have been permanently assigned to higher level Customs Service officers and such index cards are filed alphabetically. The remainder of the index cards relate to credit cards which are issued to Customs Service officers or employees on a one transaction basis, and these index cards are filed by the applicable credit card number.

Safeguards: The metal cabinet in which the index cards are placed is locked, and the room in which the metal cabinet is located is locked during non-working hours. The building is guarded by uniformed security police, and only authorized persons are permitted in the building.

Retention and disposal: Index cards filed alphabetically by name are retained during the period that the officials named thereon are in possession of the credit cards, and these index cards are disposed of when the officials are no longer in possession of the credit cards. Index cards filed by credit card number are retained until all signature lines have been used, at which time these index cards are discarded.

Authority for maintenance of the system: 19 U.S.C. 1641; 19 CFR Part 111; 5 U.S.C. 301; Reorganization Plan No. 1 of 1950; Treasury Department Order No. 165, Revised, as amended.

Routine uses of records maintained in the system, including categories of users and the purposes of such uses: The routine uses of the records contained in this system of records are as follows: (a) Disclosure to those officers and employees of the Customs Service and the Department of the Treasury who have a need for the records in the performance of their duties; (b) Disclosures required in the administration of the Freedom of Information Act (5 U.S.C. 552). (c) In order to carry out the authority to discipline customhouse brokers for violation of regulations promulgated pursuant to 19 U.S.C. 1641, information in this file is used to evaluate reported derelictions and to recommend to the Commissioner of Customs that disciplinary action be initiated or to recommend that such action not be taken. In addition, information in these files is used to prepare written reprimands issued to brokers and to prepare proposed charges in connection with recommendations that proceedings be held looking toward the suspension or revocation of brokers' licenses. Information in these files is also used in connection with administrative proceedings looking toward the suspension or revocation of licenses. (d) In addition, information contained in these files is provided to the Department of Justice for its use in connection with appeals from orders resulting in the suspension or revocation of licenses. (e) The information may be furnished to other Government agencies which have an interest in the situations that led to the disciplinary action, or in the broker.

For additional routine uses see Appendix AA.

Policies and practices for storing, retrieving, accessing, retaining, and disposing of records in the system:

Storage: Each case file is inserted in an alphabetical file folder which is filed in an unlocked drawer within a metal container.

Retrievability: Each case file is identified in a manual alphabetical card file by the name of the customhouse broker and in the alphabetical file folder within the metal container by the name of the customhouse broker.

Safeguards: The metal container described above is maintained within the area assigned to the Office of the Chief Counsel within the Customs Service Building. During non-working hours the room in which the metal container is located is locked, and access to the building is controlled at all times by uniformed guards.

Retention and disposal: Customhouse broker files are retained indefinitely or until there is no longer any space available for them within the metal container, at which time the oldest files are transferred to the Federal Record Center.

System manager(s) and address: Chief Counsel, U.S. Customs Service Headquarters, 1301 Constitution Avenue, N.W., Washington, D.C. 20229.

Notification procedure: Requests by an individual to be notified if the system of records contains records pertaining to him shall be in writing and directed to the Director, Entry Procedures and Penalties Division, Office of Regulations and Rulings, U.S. Customs Service Headquarters, 1301 Constitution Avenue, N.W., Washington, D.C. 20229. The requester will be notified in writing of the procedures to be followed. Where the request is presented in person, the requester shall present adequate identification to establish his identity, and a comparison of his signature and those in the records may be made where the records contain the necessary signature.

If an individual can provide no suitable documents for identification, he may be required to make a signed statement asserting identity and stipulating that he understands that knowingly or willfully seeking or obtaining access to records about another person under false pretenses is punishable by a fine up to 5,000 dollars.

Where the request is not presented in person, it shall be accompanied by a notarized statement executed by the requester asserting identity and stipulating that he understands that knowingly or willfully seeking or obtaining access to records about another person under false pretenses is punishable by a fine up to 5,000 dollars. A comparison of his signature and those in the records may be made where the records contain the necessary signature.

Record source categories: The information contained in these files originates from audits of or investigations into the conduct of customhouse brokers' businesses which include review of customhouse brokers' business records and interviews of Customs Service personnel, private parties, customhouse brokers and employees of customhouse brokers. The audits or investigations result in recommendations from appropriate Customs Service field personnel regarding possible disciplinary action against customhouse brokers which in turn result in the information contained in these files which consists of evaluations of the recommendations and the proposed disposition of the cases.

Systems exempted from certain provisions of the act: The Commissioner of Customs pursuant to 5 U.S.C. 552a (j) and/or (k) has proposed to exempt this system of records from certain requirements of 5 U.S.C. 552a. The provisions of 5 U.S.C. 552a from which this system of records is proposed to be exempted and the justification for the exemption is contained in a general notice which appears elsewhere in the Federal Register.

V 41 N 200 OCT 14 76 UM

Categories of individuals covered by the system: Citizens of the United States, 21 years of age or older, who have been granted individual customhouse brokers' license for specific U.S. Customs Districts and such individuals who have applied for an individual broker's license which has been denied for cause other than failure to pass the qualifying individual customhouse brokers' license examination.

Categories of records in the system: The records system contains executed individual customhouse brokers' license application forms, report of investigation concerning individual broker applicants, transmittal letters, and general correspondence corrobative of information disclosed in an individual's license application or report of investigation as to the applicant's character and business integrity. The records system also contains information relating to actual or proposed disciplinary action against licensed customhouse brokers.

Authority for maintenance of the system: 19 U.S.C. 1641, Part 111; 5 U.S.C. 301; Reorganization Plan No. 1 of 1950; Treasury Department Order No. 165, Revised, as amended.

Routine uses of records maintained in the system, including categories of users and the purposes of such uses: The routine uses of the records contained in this system of records are as follows: (a) Disclosure to those officers and employees of the Customs Service and the Department of the Treasury who have a need for the records in the performance of their duties; (b) Disclosures required in administration of the Freedom of Information Act (5 U.S.C. 552); (c) In the event that this system of records includes information which indicates a violation or potential violation of law, whether civil, criminal, or regulatory in nature, and whether arising by general statute or particular program statute, or by regulation, rule, or order issued pursuant thereto, the relevant records in the system of records may be referred, as a routine use, to the appropriate agency, whether Federal, state, local, or foreign, charged with the responsibility of investigating or prosecuting such violation or charged with enforcing or implementing the statute, or rule, regulation, or order issued pursuant thereto. (d) Processing of individual applications for individual customhouse brokers' licenses; processing of corporation, partnership, and association brokers' licenses; approval of use of trade or fictitious brokers' names; maintenance of centralized files on licensed customhouse brokers for verification and updating of names, addresses, place of employment, district where licensed, and compliance with regulatory requirements of duties and obligations of customhouse brokers; determinations that each corporate, association, or partnership licensed as a broker have not less than two officers or members licensed as individual brokers; and the availability of file information to verify licensing of customhouse brokers and to provide data or information upon request to the Federal Maritime Commission, the Civil Aeronautics Board, an appropriate U.S. Attorney's office, or other Federal agency.

For additional routine uses see Appendix AA.

Policies and practices for storing, retrieving, accessing, retaining, and disposing of records in the system:

Storage: Each file is kept in an alphabetical file folder in metal file cabinets.

Retrievability: Each file is indexed in a file card system by alphabetical name and Customs district where located. Records are retrieved alphabetically by reference to the card file index, or by license certificate number assigned to a broker upon the granting and issuing of a customhouse broker's license. Cancelled brokers' records are maintained in cancelled files arranged alphabetically.

Safeguards: Direct access to the files is limited to Customs employees assigned to processing and reviewing Customhouse brokers' license applications. At least one employee of the Entry and Licensing Branch is present in the office at all times during working hours. At all other times the room is locked. The building is guarded by security police on a round-the-clock basis, and only authorized persons are permitted in the building.

Retention and disposal: Cancelled Customhouse brokers' records are retained in cancelled files and used for precedent purposes. The records are maintained indefinitely.

System manager(s) and address: Director, Entry Procedures and Penalties Division, U.S. Customs Service Headquarters, 1301 Constitution Avenue, N.W., Washington, D.C. 20229.

Notification procedure: Requests by an individual to be notified if the system of records contains records pertaining to him shall be in writing and directed to the Director, Entry Procedures and Penalties Division, Office of Regulations and Rulings, U.S. Customs Service Headquarters, 1301 Constitution Avenue, N.W., Washington, D.C. 20229. The requester will be notified in writing of the procedures to be followed. Where the request is presented in person, the requester shall present adequate identification to establish his identity, and a comparison of his signature and those in the records may be made where the records contain the necessary signature.

If an individual can provide no suitable documents for identification, he may be required to make a signed statement asserting identity and stipulating that he understands that knowingly or willfully seeking or obtaining access to records about another person under false pretenses is punishable by a fine up to 5,000 dollars.

Where the request is not presented in person, it shall be accompanied by a notarized statement executed by the requester asserting identity and stipulating that he understands that knowingly or willfully seeking or obtaining access to records about another person under false pretenses is punishable by a fine up to 5,000 dollars. A comparison of his signature and those in the records may be made where the records contain the necessary signature.

Record source categories: Information in the records is obtained from the license applications of the individual Customhouse brokers; references as to good character and integrity of the applicant; reports of investigations by Customs regarding applicants for licenses and disciplinary action; responses to posted notices of individual applicants applying for Customhouse brokers' licenses; local credit reporting services; Customs audit reports; court records.

Systems exempted from certain provisions of the act: The Commissioner of Customs pursuant to 5 U.S.C. 552a (j) and/or (k) has proposed to exempt this system of records from certain requirements of 5 U.S.C. 552a. Policies and practices for storing, retrieving, accessing, retaining, and disposing of records in the system:

Storage: The information in this system is contained on index cards within a file box which is placed in a locked metal cabinet within the supply room office. In addition, the information is contained in a Customs Service computer record system.

Retrievability: Each index card is identified by the name of the person to whom the badge is issued and these cards are filed in alphabetical order. The computer records are accessed by the badge number.

Safeguards: The metal cabinet in which the index cards are placed is locked, and the room in which the metal cabinet is located is locked when the supply clerk is absent from the room and during non-working hours. The building is guarded by uniformed security police, and only authorized persons are permitted in the building. With regard to the computer records, procedural and physical safeguards are utilized such as accountability and receipt records, guards patrolling the area, restricted access, and alarm protection systems.

Retention and disposal: Each index card and each computer record is maintained during the period in which the officer is in possession of the badge. The index cards are discarded, and the information in the computer is erased when the officer no longer has possession of the badge.

System manager(s) and address: Chief, Headquarters Support Branch, Logistics Management Division, U.S. Customs Service Headquarters, 1301 Constitution Avenue, N.W., Washington, D.C. 20229.

Notification procedure: Requests by an individual to be notified if the system of records contains records pertaining to him shall be in writing and directed to the Director, Entry Procedures and Penalties Division, Office of Regulations and Rulings, U.S. Customs Service Headquarters, 1301 Constitution Avenue, N.W., Washington, D.C. 20229. The requester will be notified in writing of the procedures to be followed. Where the request is presented in person, the requester shall present adequate identification to establish his identity, and a comparison of his signature and those in the records may be made where the records contain the necessary signature.

If an individual can provide no suitable documents for identification, he may be required to make a signed statement asserting identity and stipulating that he understands that knowingly or willfully seeking or obtaining access to records about another person under false pretenses is punishable by a fine up to 5,000 dollars.

Where the request is not presented in person, it shall be accompanied by a notarized statement executed by the requester asserting identity and stipulating that he understands that knowingly or willfully seeking or obtaining access to records about another person under false pretenses is punishable by a fine up to 5,000 dollars. A comparison of his signature and those in the records may be made where the records contain the necessary signature.

records includes information which indicates a violation or potential violation of law, whether civil, criminal, or regulatory in nature, and whether arising by general statute or particular program statute, or by regulation, rule, or order issued pursuant thereto, the relevant records in the system of records may be referred, as a routine use, to the appropriate agency, whether Federal, state, local, or foreign, charged with the responsibility of investigating or prosecuting such violation of charged with enforcing or implementing the statute, or rule, regulation, or order issued pursuant thereto. (d) A record from this system of records may be disclosed as a "routine use" to a Federal, state, or local agency maintaining civil, criminal, or other relevant enforcement information or other pertinent information, such as current licenses, if necessary to obtain information relevant to an agency decision concerning the hiring or retention of an employee, the issuance of a security clearance, the letting of a contract, or the issuance of a license, grant, or other benefit. (e) A record from this system of records may be disclosed to a Federal agency, in response to its request, in connection with the hiring or retention of an employee, the issuance of a security clearance, the reporting of an investigation of an employee, the letting of a contract, or the issuance of a license, grant, or other benefit by the requesting agency, to the extent that the information is relevant and necessary to the requesting agency's decision on the matter. (f) Information contained in this file is used by the attorneys in the Regional Counsel's office in determining whether to recommend granting or denial of the request made pursuant to the Freedom of Information Act. Litigation regarding the Freedom of information request will require disclosure of the information to the Department of Justice and the appellate level before this step would require information to be disclosed to the Department of the Treasury. Information disclosed to the Department of Justice is often routed through the Department of the Treasury.

For additional routine uses see Appendix AA.

Policies and practices for storing, retrieving, accessing, retaining, and disposing of records in the system:

Storage: Each case file is inserted in a file folder which is filed in a lockable drawer within a metal filing cabinet.

Retrievability: Each case file is identified in a manual alphabetical card file by the name of the person who initiated the Freedom of Information Act request. In addition, each case file is similarly identified on the file folder with the alphabetical name on the file which is placed and located within the metal container.

Safeguards: The metal filing drawer containing the files described above is maintained within the area assigned to the Office of the Regional Counsel, Region IX at 55 E. Monroe Street, Chicago, Illinois. During non-working hours, the room in which the metal filing drawer is located is locked, the file container itself is locked, and access to the building is controlled at all times by uniformed guards with a check-in system for employees. Only employees of the Regional Counsel's office and authorized building personnel have keys to the building.

Retention and disposal: These files are retained indefinitely or until there is no longer space available for them within the metal filing cabinet at which time the oldest files are transferred to the storage area within the confines of the office. The storage area is a large area containing cardboard boxes and metal storage cabinets which are not able to be locked. Files which are closed and not retained for precedent purposes are retired to the Federal Records Center, General Service Administration, 7358 S. Pulaski, Chicago, Illinois 60602, in accordance with the U.S. Customs Service Records Disposal Manual.

System manager(s) and address: Regional Counsel of Customs, Room 1417, United States Customs Service, 55 E. Monroe Street, Chicago, Illinois 60603.

Notification procedure: Requests by an individual to be notified if the system of records contains records pertaining to him shall be in writing and directed to the Regional Commissioner of the region in which the records are located (see Custom Appendix A), or to the Director, Entry Procedures and Penalties Division, Office of Regulations and Rulings, U.S. Customs Service Headquarters, 1301 Constitution Avenue, N.W., Washington, D.C. 20229. The requester will be notified in writing of the procedures to be followed. Where the request is presented in person, the requester shall present adequate identification to establish his identity, and a comparison of his signature and those in the records may be made where the records contain the necessary signature.

If an individual can provide no suitable documents for identification, he may be required to make a signed statement asserting identity and stipulating that he understands that knowingly or willfully seeking or obtaining access to records about another person under false pretenses is punishable by a fine up to 5,000 dollars.

Where the request is not presented in person, it shall be accompanied by a notarized statement executed by the requester asserting identity and stipulating that he understands that knowingly or willfully seeking or obtaining access to records about another person under false pretenses is punishable by a fine up to 5,000 dollars. A comparison of his signature and those in the records may be made where the records contain the necessary signature.

Record source categories: The information in these files can originate from the U.S. Customs Service, any of the agencies of the Treasury Department, or any agency of the Government if the record sought and ultimately placed within the file is within the possession and/or control of the U.S. Customs Service, Region IX. However, the only information placed within these files is that information being sought by the individual making the request and the information supplied by the requester. The information being sought, and therefore within the file, could be from any of the following, given as examples: present or former Customs employees, private parties, corporations, other Government agencies as outlined above, credit bureaus, past employers, official Government or other forms filed by any entity or person, confidential informers, foreign countries or officials thereof, and foreign citizens.

Systems exempted from certain provisions of the act: The Commissioner of Customs pursuant to 5 U.S.C. 552a (j) and/or (k) has proposed to exempt this system of records from certain requirements of 5 U.S.C. 552a. The provisions of 5 U.S.C. 552a from which this system of records is proposed to be exempted and the justification for the exemption is contained in a general notice which appears elsewhere in the Federal Register.

Safeguards: The metal container described above is maintained within the area assigned to the office of the Regional Counsel on the 12th Floor of 500 Dallas Street. During non-working hours the room in which the metal container is located is locked, and access to the building is controlled by uniformed security guards maintained by the lessor.

Retention and disposal: Tort claim files are retained until closed at which time the closed files are transferred to the Regional Director, Internal Affairs, Houston, Texas. Ultimately, the files are sent to the Federal Record Center.

System manager(s) and address: Regional Counsel, Suite 1220, United States Customs Service, 500 Dallas Street, Houston, Texas 77002.

Notification procedure: Requests by an individual to be notified if the system of records contains records pertaining to him shall be in writing and directed to the Regional Commissioner of the region in which the records are located (see Customs Appendix A), or to the Director, Entry Procedures and Penalties Division, Office of Regulations and Rulings, U.S. Customs Service Headquarters, 1301 Constitution Avenue, N.W., Washington, D.C. 20229. The requester will be notified in writing of the procedures to be followed. Where the request is presented in person, the requester shall present adequate identification to establish his identity, and a comparison of his signature and those in the records may be made where the records contain the necessary signature.

If an individual can provide no suitable documents for identification, he may be required to make a signed statement asserting identity and stipulating that he understands that knowingly or willfully seeking or obtaining access to records about another person under false pretenses is punishable by a fine up to 5,000 dollars.

Where the request is not presented in person, it shall be accompanied by a notarized statement executed by the requester asserting identity and stipulating that he understands that knowingly or willfully seeking or obtaining access to records about another person under false pretenses is punishable by a fine up to 5,000 dollars. A comparison of his signature and those in the records may be made where the records contain the necessary signature.

Record source categories: The information contained in these files originates with a Standard Form 95, Claim for Damage or Injury, which is completed and filed with the Customs Service by the claimant. Using these forms as a basis, investigations are conducted by authorized Customs Service investigative personnel in order to determine the facts surrounding the claims. During these investigations information may be elicited from Customs Service employees, private persons, or any other parties who may have information regarding the facts surrounding the claims.

Systems exempted from certain provisions of the act: The Commissioner of Customs pursuant to 5 U.S.C. 552a (j) and/or (k) has proposed to exempt this system of records from certain requirements of 5 U.S.C. 552a. The provisions of 5 U.S.C. 552a from which this system of records is proposed to be exempted and the justification for the exemption is contained in a general notice which appears elsewhere in the Federal Register.

V 41 N 200 OCT 14 76 UMI

Routine uses of records maintained in the system, including categories of users and the purposes of such uses: The information contained in this file is used to administratively process Supplemental Petitions for relief from any fine, penalty, forfeiture or claim for liquidated damages incurred under the provisions of any law administered by Customs. The information is made available to the officials within the Customs Service who review recommendations and who make final decisions on such petitions. In addition, information contained in this file is made available to the Department of Justice to assist that Department in preparing the government case if the case is referred to them for filing of a suit based on an administrative denial of the Petition or removal to the District Court by action on the part of the Petitioner under the provisions of section 1608 of title 19. Information in these files may also be made available to persons working for the governmental agencies who are empowered to review and make recommendations concerning the granting of relief for violations of law administered by such agencies but enforced by Customs.

For additional routine uses see Appendix AA.

Policies and practices for storing, retrieving, accessing, retaining, and disposing of records in the system:

Storage: Each case file is inserted in an alphabetical file folder which is filed in an unlocked drawer within a metal container.

Retrievability: Each case file is labeled with the name of the person who filed the claim and filed in alphabetical order in the metal file cabinet marked Supplemental Petitions. In addition a chronological record is kept in a separate book, kept by the office secretary, of each case received, with district case number, decision, name of the Petitioner, law violated and ultimate decision of the Regional Commissioner.

Safeguards: The metal container described above is maintained within the area assigned to the Office of the Regional Counsel within the New Federal Building. During non-working hours the room in which the metal container is located is locked, and access to the building is controlled at all times by uniformed guards.

Retention and disposal: Indefinite.

System manager(s) and address: Regional Counsel, Room 7422, United States Customs Service, 300 N. Los Angeles St., Los Angeles, California 90053.

Notification procedure: Requests by an individual to be notified if the system of records contains records pertaining to him shall be in writing and directed to the Regional Commissioner of Customs, 300 N. Los Angeles St., Los Angeles, California 90053, or to the Director, Entry Procedures and Penalties Division, Office of Regulations and Rulings, U.S. Customs Service Headquarters, 1301 Constitution Avenue, N.W., Washington, D.C. 20229. The requester will be notified in writing of the procedures to be followed. Where the request is presented in person, the requester shall present adequate identification to establish his identity, and a comparison of his signature and those in the records may be made where the records contain the necessary signature.

If an individual can provide no suitable documents for identification, he may be required to make a signed statement asserting identity and stipulating that he understands that knowingly or willfully seeking or obtaining access to records about another person under false pretenses is punishable by a fine up to 5,000 dollars.

Where the request is not presented in person, it shall be accompanied by a notarized statement executed by the requester asserting identity and stipulating that he understands that knowingly or willfully seeking or obtaining access to records about another person under false pretenses is punishable by a fine up to 5,000 dollars. A comparison of his signature and those in the records may be made where the records contain the necessary signature.

Record source categories: The information contained in these files originates with the filing of a Supplemental Petition as prescribed by section 171.33 and 172.33 of the Customs Regulations with the District Director of the District in which the fine, penalty, forfeiture or claim for liquidated damages issued. The Petition along with all supporting documents or documents relating to the case are forwarded to the office of the Regional Commissioner who refers the case to the office of the Regional Counsel for review and recommendation. During this period of review further information may be elicited from Customs Service employees, private persons, or any other parties who may have information regarding the facts surrounding the case.

Systems exempted from certain provisions of the act: The Commissioner of Customs pursuant to 5 U.S.C. 552a (j) and/or (k) has proposed to exempt this system of records from certain requirements of 5 U.S.C. 552a. Treasury/Customs 00.098

System name: Fines, Penalties and Forfeiture Records—Treasury/Customs System location: Customs district offices. (See Customs Appendix A).

Categories of individuals covered by the system: Individuals and firms who have been administratively charged with violations of Customs laws and regulations and other laws and regulations enforced by the Customs Service.

Categories of records in the system: Entry documentation, notices, investigative reports, memoranda, petitions, recommendations, referrals and dispositions of fines, penalties and forfeiture cases.

Authority for maintenance of the system: 5 U.S.C. 301; Reorganization Plan No. 1 of 1950; Treasury Department Order No. 165, Revised, as amended. 19 U.S.C. 66, 1618, 1624; 19 CFR Parts 171 and 172.

Routine uses of records maintained in the system, including categories of users and the purposes of such uses: (a) Disclosure to those officers and employees of the Customs Service and the Department of the Treasury who have a need for the records in the performance of their duties. Such uses would include reference to the files for information as to prior violations and ongoing investigations and cases. (b) Disclosures required in administration of the Freedom of Information Act (5 U.S.C. 552); (c) In the event that this system of records includes information which indicates a violation or potential violation of law, whether civil, criminal, or regulatory in nature, and whether arising by general statute or particular program statute, or by regulation, rule, or order issued pursuant thereto, the relevant records in the system of records may be referred, as a routine use, to the appropriate agency, whether Federal, state, local, or foreign, charged with the responsibility of investigating or prosecuting such violation or charged with enforcing or implementing the statute, or rule, regulation, or order issued pursuant thereto. Such uses would include referring records to the Environmental Protection Agency, the Department of Transportation, the appropriate U.S. Attorney and other Federal agencies for recommendations and enforcement of fines, penalties and forfeiture cases.

For additional routine uses, see Appendix AA.

Policies and practices for storing, retrieving, accessing, retaining, and disposing of records in the system:

Storage: The records are maintained in folders in file cabinets and safes.

Retrievability: The records are filed either by the name of the individual or chronologically with a cross reference index by the name of the individual.

Safeguards: During non-working hours, the records are maintained in locked rooms, locked buildings and buildings guarded by uniform guards.

Retention and disposal: The records are retained for three to five years after which they are either destroyed or forwarded to the Federal Records Center.

System manager(s) and address: District Directors of Customs (See Customs Appendix A).

Notification procedure: Requests by an individual to be notified if the system of records contains records pertaining to him shall be in writing and directed to the Regional Commissioner of the region in which the records are located (see Appendix A), or to the Director, Entry Procedures and Penalties Division, Office of Regulations and Rulings, U.S. Customs Service Headquarters, 1301 Constitution Avenue, N.W., Washington, D.C. 20229. The requester will be notified in writing of the procedures to be followed. Where the request is presented in person, the requester shall present adequate identification to establish his identity, and a comparison of his signature and those in the records may be made where the records contain the necessary signature.

If an individual can provide no suitable documents for identification, he may be required to make a signed statement asserting identity and stipulating that he understands that knowingly or willfully seeking or obtaining access to records about another person under false pretenses is punishable by a fine up to 5,000 dollars.

Where the request is not presented in person, it shall be accompanied by a notarized statement executed by the requester asserting identity and stipulating that he understands that knowingly or willfully seeking or obtaining access to records about another person under false pretenses is punishable by a fine up to 5,000 dollars. A comparison of his signature and those in the records may be made where the records contain the necessary signature.

Record source categories: Information and representations supplied by importers, brokers and other agents pursuant to the entry and processing of merchandise or in the clearing of individuals or baggage through Customs. Information also includes information gathered pursuant to Customs investigations of suspected of actual violations of Customs and related laws and regulations and recommendations and information supplied by other agencies.

Systems exempted from certain provisions of the act: The Commissioner of Customs pursuant to 5 U.S.C. 552a (j) and/or (k) has proposed to exempt this system of records from certain requirements of 5 U.S.C. 552a. The provisions of 5 U.S.C. 552a from which this system of records is proposed to be exempted and the justification for the exemption is contained in a general notice which appears elsewhere in the Federal Register.

The requester will be notified in writing of the procedures to be followed. Where the request is presented in person, the requester shall present adequate identification to establish his identity, and a comparison of his signature and those in the records may be made where the records contain the necessary signature.

If an individual can provide no suitable documents for identification, he may be required to make a signed statement asserting identity and stipulating that he understands that knowingly or willfully seeking or obtaining access to records about another person under false pretenses is punishable by a fine up to 5,000 dollars.

Where the request is not presented in person, it shall be accompanied by a notarized statement executed by the requester asserting identity and stipulating that he understands that knowingly or willfully seeking or obtaining access to records about another person under false pretenses is punishable by a fine up to 5,000 dollars. A comparison of his signature and those in the records may be made where the records contain the necessary signature.

Record source categories: Information and representations supplied by importers, brokers and other agents pursuant to the entry and processing of merchandise or in the clearing of individuals or baggage through Customs. Information also includes information gathered pursuant to Customs investigations of suspected or actual violations of Customs and related laws and regulations and recommendations and information supplied by other agencies.

Systems exempted from certain provisions of the act: The Commissioner of Customs pursuant to 5 U.S.C. 552a (j) and/or (k) has proposed to exempt this system of records from certain requirements of 5 U.S.C. 552a. The provisions of 5 U.S.C. 552a from which this system of records is proposed to be exempted and the justification for the exemption is contained in a general notice which appears elsewhere in the Federal Register.

System name: Fines, Penalty, and Forfeiture (FP&F) Records System—Treasury/Customs.

System location: Office of the Regional Counsel, U.S. Customs Service, Region IX, 55 E. Monroe Street, Room 1417, Chicago, Illinois 60603.

Categories of individuals covered by the system: Persons seeking relief from fines, penalties, and forfeitures incurred for alleged violations of the laws enforced by the United States Customs Service, and/or restoration of proceeds from the sale of seized and forfeited property.

Categories of records in the system: Statement from individual explaining circumstances justifying relief sought and history of the fine, penalty, forfeiture or seizure involved.

Authority for maintenance of the system: 5 U.S.C. 301; Reorganization Plan No. 1 of 1950; Treasury Department Order No. 165, Revised, as amended; 19 CFR part 171 and 172.

Routine uses of records maintained in the system, including categories of users and the purposes of such uses: The routine uses of the records contained in this system of records are as follows: (a) Disclosure to those officers and employees of the Customs Service, the Department of the Treasury and the Department of Justice, who have a need for the records in the performance of their duties; (b) Disclosures required in administration of the Freedom of Information Act (5 U.S.C. 552); (c) In the event that this system of records includes information which indicates a violation or potential violation of law, whether civil, criminal, or regulatory in nature, and whether arising by general statute or particular program statute, or by regulation, rule, or order issued pursuant thereto, the relevant records in the system of records may be referred, as a routine use, to the appropriate agency, whether Federal, state, local, or foreign, charged with the responsibility of investigating or prosecuting such violation or charged with enforcing or implementing the statute, or rule, regulation, or order issued pursuant thereto. (d) A record from this system of records may be disclosed as a "routine use" to a Federal, state, or local agency maintaining civil, criminal, or other relevant enforcement information or other pertinent information, such as current licenses, if necessary to obtain information relevant to an agency decision concerning the hiring or retention of an employee, the issuance of a security clearance, the letting of a contract, or the issuance of a license, grant, or other benefit. (e) A record from this system of records may be disclosed to a Federal agency, in response to its request, in connection with the hiring or retention of an employee, the issuance of a security clearance, the reporting of an investigation of an employee, the letting of a contract, or the issuance of a license, grant, or other benefit by the requesting agency, to the extent that the information is relevant and necessary to the requesting agency's decision on the matter. (f) Information contained in these files is routinely used by the attorneys in the Regional Counsel's office in determining and resolving legal issues, in denying or granting the petition and possibly in litigation. Litigation will require disclosure of the information to the Department of Justice, and the information is often channeled through the Department of Treasury.

For additional routine uses see Appendix AA.

Policies and practices for storing, retrieving, accessing, retaining, and disposing of records in the system:

Storage: Each case file is inserted in a file folder which is filed in a lockable drawer within a metal filing cabinet container.

Retrievability: Each case file is identified in a manual alphabetical card file by the name of the person who initiated the petition for relief. In addition, each case file is similarly identified on the file folder with the alphabetical name on the file which is placed and located within the metal container.

Safeguards: The metal filing drawer containing the files described above is maintained within the area assigned to the office of the Regional Counsel, Region IX, at 55 E. Monroe Street, Chicago, Illinois. During non-working hours, the room in which the metal filing drawer is located is locked, the file container itself is locked, and access to the building is controlled at all times by uniformed guards with a check-in system for employees. Only employees of the Regional Counsel's office and authorized building personnel have keys to the building.

Retention and disposal: These files are retained indefinitely or until there is no longer space available for them within the metal filing cabinet at which time the oldest files are transferred to the storage area within the confines of the office. The storage area is a large area containing cardboard boxes with metal storage cabinets which are not able to be locked. Files which are closed and not retained for precedent purposes are retired to the Federal Records Center, General Services Administration, 7358 S. Pulaski, Chicago, Illinois 60602 in accordance with the U.S. Customs Service Records Disposal Manual.

System manager(s) and address: Regional Counsel of Customs, Room 1417, United States Customs Service, 55 E. Monroe Street, Chicago, Illinois 60603.

Notification procedure: Requests by an individual to be notified if the system of records contains records pertaining to him shall be in writing and directed to the Regional Commissioner of Customs, 55 E. Monroe Street, Chicago, Illinois 60603 or the Entry Procedures and Penalties Division, Customs Headquarters, Washington, D.C. 20229. The requester will be notified in writing of the procedures to be followed. Where the request is presented in person, the requester shall present adequate identification to establish his identity, and a comparison of his signature and those in the records may be made where the records contain the necessary signature.

If an individual can provide no suitable documents for identification, he may be required to make a signed statement asserting identity and stipulating that he understands that knowingly or willfully seeking or obtaining access to records about another person under false pretenses is punishable by a fine up to 5,000 dollars.

Where the request is not presented in person, it shall be accompanied by a notarized statement executed by the requester asserting identity and stipulating that he understands that knowingly or willfully seeking or obtaining access to records about another person under false pretenses is punishable by a fine up to 5,000 dollars. A comparison of his signature and those in the records may be made where the records contain the necessary signature.

Record source categories: The information contained in these files originates either with the receipt of any correspondence indicating that relief is desired or any notice from within the Customs Service that a fine or penalty is to be assessed. Further information in this file is derived from investigatory files and other information submitted by the petitioner and will include information from: informers, Customs employees, private parties, corporations, other Governmental agencies, state, local and Federal, credit bureaus, Seizure Reports (Customs Form 5955A, Customs Form 151) foreign countries, officials of foreign countries, citizens of foreign countries.

Systems exempted from certain provisions of the act: The Commissioner of Customs pursuant to 5 U.S.C. 552a (j) and/or (k) has proposed to exempt this system of records from certain requirements of 5 U.S.C. 552a. The provisions of 5 U.S.C. 552a from which this system of records is proposed to be exempted and the justification for the exemption is contained in a general notice which appears elsewhere in the Federal Register.

System name: Internal Security Records System—Treasury/Customs.

System location: Internal Security Division, U.S. Customs Service Headquarters, Room 5335, 1301 Constitution Avenue, N.W., Washington, D.C. 20229. Tort Claim Investigation Files and index card files at each Regional Director (Internal Affairs) Office. See Customs Appendix A.

Categories of individuals covered by the system: Present and past employees, applicants for positions that require an investigation, and others that are the subject of an investigation.

Categories of records in the system: Security clearance records; background, tort claim, special inquiry, conduct, and equal employment opportunity investigations and other Customs related investigations including individuals involved in accidents under investigation.

Authority for maintenance of the system: 5 U.S.C. 301; Reorganization Plan No. 1 of 1950; Treasury Department Order No. 165, Revised, as amended.

Routine uses of records maintained in the system, including categories of users and the purposes of such uses: The routine uses of the records contained in this system of records are as follows: (a) Disclosure to those officers and employees of the Customs Service and the Department of the Treasury who have a need for the records in the performance of their duties; (b) Disclosure required in the administration of the Freedom of Information Act (5 U.S.C. 552); (c) Provide the proper authority within the Department of the Treasury with sufficient information to make a decision as to whether or not an applicant or employee is suitable for employment in a sensitive position, and to make a determination regarding a subject's loyalty; (d) When routine background investigation develops evidence of violations of law, case is referred to Investigative Branch; (e) Serves as a basis for granting access to classified information and material. When necessary, advise Government agencies and private industry of employees having security clearances; (f) To provide basis for disciplinary action, criminal prosecution establishing guilt or innocence, identifying procedural weaknesses, establishing liability in tort claim investigations, give information to Equal Employment Opportunity Division in EEO cases, provide information to appropriate officials, management and Congressmen; (g) In the event that this system of records includes information which indicates a violation or potential violation of law, whether civil, criminal or regulatory in nature, and whether arising by general statute or particular program statute, or by regulation, rule or order issued pursuant thereto, the relevant records in the system of records may be referred, as a routine use, to the appropriate agency, whether Federal, state, local or foreign, charged with the responsibility of investigating or prosecuting such violation or charged with enforcing or implementing the statute, or rule, regulation or order issued pursuant thereto; (h) A record from this system of records may be disclosed as a "routine use" to a Federal, state or local agency maintaining civil, criminal or other relevant information or other pertinent information, such as current licenses, if necessary to obtain information relevant to an agency decision concerning the hiring or retention of an employee, the issuance of a security clearance, the letting of a contract, or the issuance of a license, grant or other benefit; (i) A record from this system of records may be disclosed to a Federal agency, in response to its request, in connection with the hiring or retention of an employee, the issuance of a security clearance, the reporting of an investigation of an employee, the letting of a contract, or the issuance of a license, grant, or other benefit by the requesting agency, to the extent that the information is relevant and necessary to the requesting agency's decision on the matter.

A record contained in this system of records may be disclosed as a routine use to possible sources of information in connection with civil or criminal investigations or inquiries under circumstances where it is necessary to disclose certain information in order to pose a question to those sources.

For additional routine uses see Appendix AA.

Policies and practices for storing, retrieving, accessing, retaining, and disposing of records in the system:

Storage: Investigative records are maintained on microfiche and in file folders and stored in metal security cabinets secured by government approved three-position, combination locks. Security clearance records are stored on magnetic tape with a manual back-up system.

Retrievability: A manual, master card index is maintained for the entire system. This index includes name and/or numerical identifier.

Safeguards: In addition to being stored in secure metal containers with government approved, combination locks, the metal containers are located in locked rooms, the keys of which are controlled and issued to the custodians of the files. The security specialists and administrative personnel who maintain the files are selected for their experience and afforded access only after having been cleared by a full-field background investigation and granted appropriate security clearances for critical sensitive positions. Those departmental officials who may occasionally be granted access consistent with their positions to employ and concur in the granting of security clearances have also been investigated prior to filling critical-sensitive positions.

Retention and disposal: With exception of tort claim investigations, the file records are maintained as long as the subject of the investigation is employed by the U.S. Customs Service and for 1 year after the subject terminates employment. The files are then transferred to the Federal Records Center.

Tort Claim investigations are retained for 5 years after the close of the investigation and then destroyed. Once files are transferred, they are retained for the following periods of time by the Federal Records Center and then destroyed: Background investigations—25 years, Conduct and special inquiry investigations—15 years, Equal Employment Opportunity investigations—10 years.

System manager(s) and address: Director, Internal Security Division, U.S. Customs Service Headquarters, Room 5335, 1301 Constitution Avenue, N.W., Washington, D.C. 20229.

Systems exempted from certain provisions of the act: The Commissioner of Customs pursuant to 5 U.S.C. 552a (j) and/or (k) has proposed to exempt this system of records from certain requirements of 5 U.S.C. 552a. The provisions of 5 U.S.C. 552a from which this system of records is proposed to be exempted and the justification for the exemption are contained in a general notice which appears elsewhere in the Federal Register.

Record source categories: Sources of information for background investigations are: employers; educational institutions; police; government agencies; credit bureaus; references; neighborhood checks; medical sources; personal interviews; military, financial, citizenship, birth and tax records; and the applicants or employee's personal history and application forms.

Routine uses of records maintained in the system, including categories of users and the purposes of such uses: The routine uses of the records contained in this system of records are as follows: (a) Disclosure to those officers and employees of the Customs Service and the Department of Treasury who have a need for the records in the performance of their duties which may include the administration, investigation, enforcement and prosecution of civil and criminal Customs and related laws; (b) Disclosures required in administration of the Freedom of Information Act (5 U.S.C. 552); (c) Disclosure may be made to any civil or criminal law enforcement authorities, whether Federal, state, local or foreign; (d) In the event that this system of records includes information which indicates a violation or potential violation of law, whether civil, criminal, or regulatory in nature, and whether arising by general statute or particular program statute, or by regulation, rule, or order issued pursuant thereto, the relevant records in the system of records may be referred, as a routine use, to the appropriate agency, whether Federal, state, local, or foreign, charged with the responsibility of investigation or prosecuting such violation or charged with enforcing or implementing the statute, or rule, regulation, or order issued pursuant thereto; (e) A record from this system of records may be disclosed as a "routine use" to a Federal, state, or local agency maintaining civil, criminal, or other relevant enforcement information or other pertinent information, such as current licenses, if necessary to obtain information relevant to an agency decision concerning the hiring or retention of an employee, the issuance of a security clearance, the letting of a contract, or the issuance of a license, grant or other benefit; (f) A record from this system of records may be disclosed to a Federal agency, in response to its request, in connection with the hiring or retention of an employee, the issuance of a security clearance, the reporting of an investigation of an employee, the letting of a contract, or the issuance of a license, grant, or other benefit by the requesting agency, to the extent that the information is relevant and necessary to the requesting agency's decision on the matter.

A record contained in this system of records may be disclosed as a routine use to possible sources of information in connection with civil or criminal investigations or inquiries under circumstances where it is necessary to disclose certain information in order to pose a question to those sources.

For additional routine uses see Appendix AA.

Policies and practices for storing, retrieving, accessing, retaining, and disposing of records in the system:

Storage: Records are maintained in both hard copy files and on microfiche which are placed in locked metal containers.

Retrievability: The record system is indexed on 3 x 5 file cards by the individual's name and/or identification number and by the investigative case numbers to which the information relates. The hard copy and microfiche records are retrieved by means of the investigative case numbers.

Safeguards: All records are held in steel cabinets and are maintained according to the requirements of the United States Customs Records Manual and the United States Customs Security Manual. Access is limited by visual controls and/or a lock system. During normal working hours, files are either attended by responsible Office of Investigations employees or the file area is restricted. The office in which the records are located is locked during non-working hours and the building is patrolled by uniformed security guards.

Retention and disposal: The index cards are retained indefinitely. The hard copy and microfiche records are retained for one year or more depending on the subject matter to which they relate and are then either destroyed or transferred to the appropriate Federal Record Center, all in accordance with standard Customs Service record retention and disposal procedures.

System manager(s) and address: Assistant Commissioner, Office of Investigations, U.S. Customs Service Headquarters, Room 3106, 1301 Constitution Avenue, N.W., Washington, D.C., 20229.

Systems exempted from certain provisions of the act: The Commissioner of Customs pursuant to 5 U.S.C. 552a (j) and/or (k) has proposed to exempt this system of records from certain requirements of 5 U.S.C. 552a. The provisions of 5 U.S.C. 552a from which this system of records is proposed to be exempted and the justification for the exemption are contained in a general notice which appears elsewhere in the Federal Register.

ployee, the issuance of a security clearance, the letting of a contract, or the issuance of a license, grant, or other benefit; (e) A record from this system of records may be disclosed to a Federal agency, in response to its request, in connection with the hiring or retention of an employee, the issuance of a security clearance, the reporting of an investigation of an employee, the letting of a contract, or the issuance of a license, grant, or other benefit by the requesting agency, to the extent that the information is relevant and necessary to the requesting agency's decision on the matter.

For additional routine uses see Appendix AA.

Policies and practices for storing, retrieving, accessing, retaining, and disposing of records in the system:

Storage: Open card file (3 x 5) is kept in metal flip file.

Retrievability: Narcotic violator case files are cross-referenced by a 3 x 5 alphabetized card which contains both name and case number.

Safeguards: Open card file is kept in the Fines, Penalties and Forfeitures Office which is locked after working hours. During working hours, a staff person is always in the office. The building is under 24-hour guard.

Retention and disposal: File system has a purge date of two years after which cross reference cards are destroyed and case numbered file is no longer accessible by name of the individual.

System manager(s) and address: District Director, United States Customs Service, Room 603, 111 West Huron Street, Buffalo, New York 14202.

Notification procedure: Requests by an individual to be notified if the system of records contains records pertaining to him shall be in writing and directed to the Regional Commissioner of the region in which the records are located (see Appendix A), or to the Director, Entry Procedures and Penalties Division, Office of Regulations and Rulings, U.S. Customs Service Headquarters, 1301 Constitution Avenue, N.W., Washington, D.C. 20229. The requester will be notified in writing of the procedures to be followed. Where the request is presented in person, the requester shall present adequate identification to establish his identity, and a comparison of his signature and those in the records may be made where the records contain the necessary signature.

If an individual can provide no suitable documents for identification, he may be required to make a signed statement asserting identity and stipulating that he understands that knowingly or willfully seeking or obtaining access to records about another person under false pretenses is punishable by a fine up to five thousand dollars.

Where the request is not presented in person, it shall be accompanied by a notarized statement executed by the requester asserting identity and stipulating that he understands that knowingly or willingly seeking or obtaining access to records about another person under false pretenses is punishable by a fine up to five thousand dollars. A comparison of his signature and those in the records may be made where the records contain the necessary signature.

Record access procedures: Requests by an individual to be notified how he can gain access to a record pertaining to him contained in a system of records, and how he can contest its content shall be in writing and directed to the Regional Commissioner of the region in which the records are located (see Appendix A), or to the Director, Entry Procedures and Penalties Division, Office of Regulations and Rulings, U.S. Customs Service Headquarters, 1301 Constitution Avenue, N.W., Washington, D.C. 20229. The requester will be notified in writing of the procedures to be followed. Where the request is presented in person, the requester shall present adequate identification to establish his identity, and a comparison of his signature and those in the records may be made where the records contain the necessary signature.

If an individual can provide no suitable documents for identification, he may be required to make a signed statement asserting identity and stipulating that he understands that knowingly or willfully seeking or obtaining access to records about another person under false pretenses is punishable by a fine up to five thousand dollars.

Where the request is not presented in person, it shall be accompanied by a notarized statement executed by the requester asserting identity and stipulating that he understands that knowingly or willfully seeking or obtaining access to records about another person under false pretenses is punishable by a fine up to five thousand dollars. A comparison of his signature and those in the records may be made where the records contain the necessary signature.

Contesting record procedures: See access above.

Record source categories: The information in these files is obtained from Search/Arrest and Seizure Reports transmitted to the Fines, Penalties and Forfeitures Office by ports and stations within the district.

Treasury/Customs 00.159

System name: Notification of Personnel Management Division when an employee is placed under investigation by the Office of Internal Affairs—Treasury/Customs.

System location: Personnel Management Division, 500 Dallas Street, Houston, Texas 77002.

Categories of individuals covered by the system: Customs employees who are suspected of misconduct.

Categories of records in the system: A written or telephonic notification made by the Office of Internal Affairs that an investigation has been opened on an individual employee.

Authority for maintenance of the system: 5 U.S.C. 301; Reorganization Plan No. 1 of 1950; Treasury Department Order No. 165, Revised, as amended.

Routine uses of records maintained in the system, including categories of users and the purposes of such uses: Notification serves to notify certain Personnel Management Division employees of the investigation to assure compliance with Chapter 751 of the Customs Personnel Manual which precludes the processing of certain personnel actions while employees are under investigation. Disclosure to those officers and employees of the Customs Service and the Department of the Treasury who have a need for the records in the performance of their duties. Disclosures required in administration of the Freedom of Information Act (5 U.S.C. 552).

In the event that this system of records includes information which indicates a violation or potential violation of law, whether civil, criminal, or regulatory in nature, and whether arising by general statute or particular program statute, or by regulation, rule or order issued pursuant thereto, the relevant records in the system of records may be refeired, as a routine use, to the appropriate agency, whether Federal, state, local or foreign, charged with the responsibility of investigating or prosecuting such violation or charged with enforcing or implementing the statute or rule, regulation, or order issued pursuant thereto.

A record from this system of records may be disclosed as a "routine use" to a Federal, state, or local agency maintaining civil, criminal, or other relevant enforcement information or other pertinent information, such as current licenses, if necessary to obtain information relevant to an agency decision concerning the hiring or retention of an employee, the issuance of a security clearance, the letting of a contract, or the issuance of a license, grant or other benefit.

A record from this system of records may be disclosed to a Federal agency, in response to its request, in connection with the hiring or retention of an employee, the issuance of a security clearance, the reporting of an investigation of an employee, the letting of a contract, or the issuance of a license, grant, or other benefit by the requesting agency, to the extent that the information is relevant and necessary to the requesting agency's decision on the matter.

For additional routine uses see Appendix AA.

Policies and practices for storing, retrieving, accessing, retaining, and disposing of records in the system:

Storage: Notifications provided by the Office of Internal Affairs are maintained in a file folder and stored in a metal security cabinet equipped with a lock.

Retrievability: The file contains the name of the employee; therefore retrievability is by the individual's name.

Safeguards: A metal container, described above, is maintained within the area assigned to Personnel Management in the One Allen Center Building. During non-working hours, the room in which the metal container is kept is locked, and access to the building is controlled at all times by uniformed guards.

Retention and disposal: The name file is retained until notification has been received that the investigation has been cancelled or on receipt of a report of investigation from the Office of Internal Affairs.

System manager(s) and address: Director, Personnel Management Division, 500 Dallas Street, Houston, Texas 77002.

Record source categories: The only source of notification that an employee has been placed under investigation is the Regional Director, Internal Affairs.

Systems exempted from certain provisions of the act: The Commissioner of Customs pursuant to 5 U.S.C. 552a (j) and/or (k) has proposed to exempt this system of records from certain requirements of 5 U.S.C. 552a. The provisions of 5 U.S.C. 552a from which this system of records is proposed to be exempted and the justification for the exemption is contained in a general notice which appears elsewhere in the Federal Register.
